Foreword

Our University is changing—faculty and student opinion is changing—the very relationship of education to life itself is changing. Our endeavor has been to interpret the true meaning of this transitional movement; to catch, if possible, a glimpse of the greater, more firmly developed University. And yet, we have tried not to lose the old, time-rich Gopher traditions, but rather to contribute thru them our share to the movement for a greater Minnesota

In Appreciation

THE Students of the University share the feeling of great loss which has come to Minnesota thru the death of Maria Sanford. Tho few of us knew her personally, or profited directly by her teaching, we are all aware of the influence she exerted upon the University. We desire to express our appreciation and gratitude for her great services

MINNESOTA

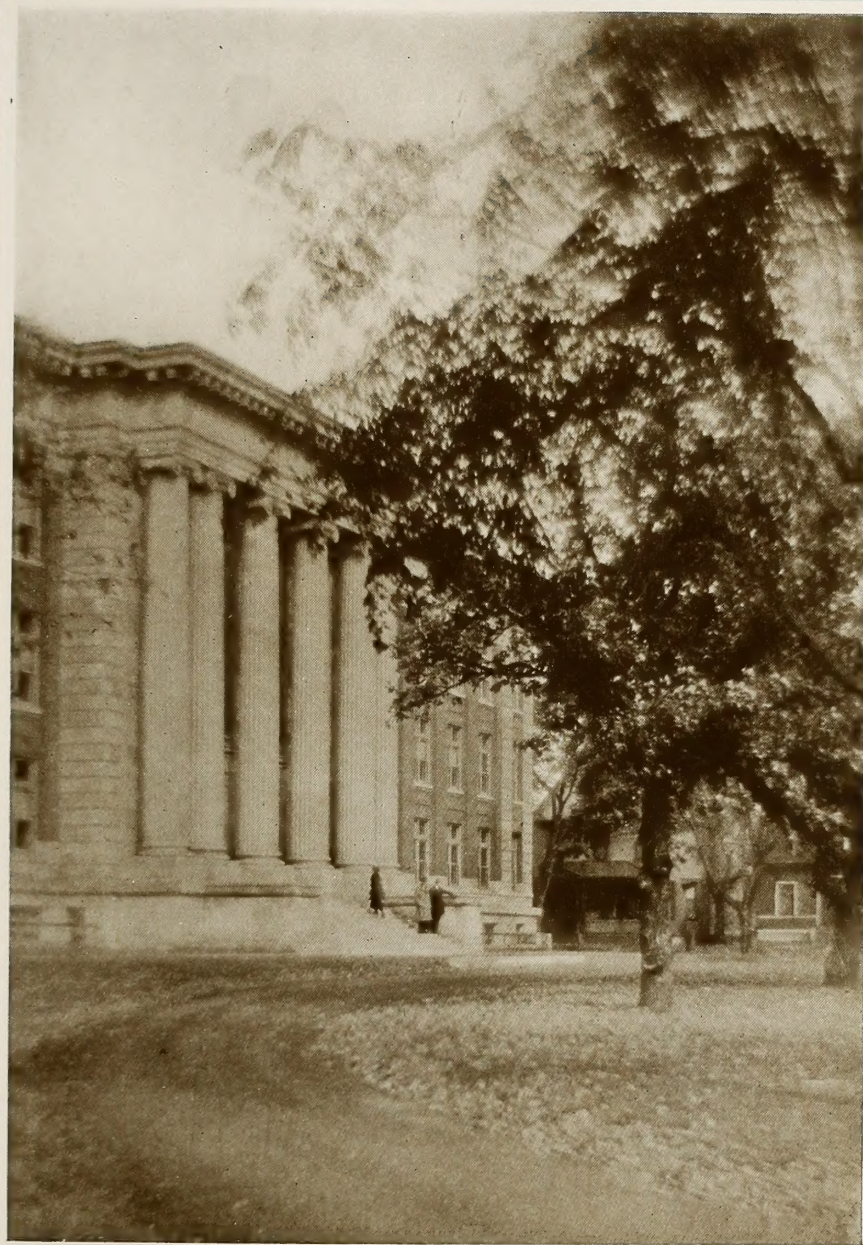

ADMINISTRATION

M. L. Burton

To the Students:

THIS Gopher will be for you the record of your student days. How strange and unusual have those days been! It is simply impossible for us now to sense in any adequate way the meaning of these disturbed times. Only the years can bring that perspective which will enable us to interpret them and to understand their message.

You began your University career just after America had entered the great war. Your freshman year was glorified by the opportunity it gave to American youth to serve their nation in a great crisis. Your sophomore year brought the strangest experience American university men have ever known. Our University practically became a military camp. None of us will ever forget the days of the Students' Army Training Corps. Your junior year has been permeated with the spirit of social unrest and industrial upheaval which has characterized our country as a whole. Weird, mysterious forces are at work in the world. Vague uncertainties and subtle possibilities of every nature and description threaten our intellectual soundness. Apparently the tendency to emphasize class distinctions and to appeal to group motives is fastening itself upon us. We are prone to hurl epithets at one another, to indulge in superficial thinking, to accept half-truths, and to trust unduly to fine phrases and dead formulae. It is difficult to distinguish the conservative from the radical. Frequently we discover that our ultra-radicals are our real reactionaries and that our sober conservatives are strangely progressive and liberal. We speak much of an era of reconstruction or a period of readjustment. Everything seems in a state of flux. Nothing stays put. Few men or women are where you expect to find them. The only certain abiding and permanent factor is change.

Such days lay serious and solemn responsibilities upon University men and women. You must insist upon the use of reason. You must demand that our country's destinies shall be determined not by class prejudice or party politics but by straightforward, firm opposition to every form of social, political or industrial injustice, by an insistent, unconquerable demand for timely legislation, and by a supreme regard for the ballot-box and the rule of the majority. Not by the appeal to the direct method of force, destruction and unreason, but by a calm, sane, reasonable grappling with the facts of our social order will we achieve social justice and industrial democracy.

You cannot escape positions of leadership. Because of your training the people will trust you and have increasing confidence in your University. I beg of you never to permit your personal interest or comfort to limit the service which your country needs from each of you.

In a very earnest way, I hope that life will bring to each of you its abiding satisfactions and its richest opportunities. Joys and sorrows await each one of you, but in the midst of them all, I hope you may have strength always to be real men and true women.

Very sincerely yours,

M. L. BURTON.

CO-OPERATION

ALONG with the material growth of the University during the last twenty-five years, in buildings, faculty and student body, there has been developing, slowly but surely, a greater recognition of the responsibilities of the University towards the student body, collectively and individually, extending far beyond the instructional work of the classroom and laboratory.

In the case of the individual student his problems of health, finances and relation to his scholastic work were his problems, and success or failure depended on his ability to solve them. In other words, the student was officially measured by the tangible results obtained. The surrounding conditions which may have modified those results materially were not known or sought for, except by the occasional instructor acting as an individual.

The first Students' Work Committee was organized in the College of Science, Literature and the Arts nearly twenty years ago. A regulation was passed by the faculty that any student who failed to pass at the end of any term in sixty per cent of the work registered for, was automatically dropped from the University. The purpose of the Students' Work Committee was to hear appeals for reinstatement, to decide whether the failure was due to inability or lack of endeavor. In attempting to reach such a decision it became necessary to go outside of the class for information, questions as to health, financial conditions, maturity, home life and any other information which might help in arriving at a just decision.

This study inevitably led to the following conclusions: that newly entering students could not in all cases be assumed to be men and women capable of carrying the full responsibilities of citizens; that the break from the comparatively close supervision of the high school over the child to the unrestricted and unsupervised liberty allowed the college man or woman, was too great and that means must be found to assist the entering student to bridge this gap.

The study and efforts expended in the attempts to solve this problem laid the foundation on which has been built our present student self-government, or rather, cooperation on the part of student and faculty.

DEAN JESSIE S. LADD

OUR PROBLEM

THIS is the year in which we must congratulate ourselves in that the shadow of war has passed from our University and from our country. No longer are the women of the University rolling bandages, making garments or knitting with such feverish activity, but all this work for a common cause has left its mark.

Never has the University had such fine cooperation from the women students, never before have the various women's organizations been so efficient.

The great enrollment has brought us many problems, but after all how interesting and stimulating is this great rush of young men and women to the universities of the land. There is real hope for the future in the earnest desire of the students to be helpful to others. The further development of our university life must be built upon the foundation of service. The effectiveness of the future is dependent upon the honest construction of the present.

DEAN J. B. JOHNSTON

SINCE the last Gopher appeared the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts has undergone what the biologists call a process of budding and has also offered herself for transfusion of blood. The budding process gave rise to the School of Business and reduced the size of the Liberal Arts College by about one-tenth. The blood-transfusion was made in favor of the College of Education, all students expecting to receive the teacher's certificate at the end of their four-years' course being required hereafter to register in the College of Education.

The college has shared in the general growth of the University this year. As compared with the year 1916-17 when the college enrolled the largest number of students in its previous history, the teaching actually being done this fall quarter is 29 per cent greater, and the faculty has increased by 14 per cent. The teaching now being carried exceeds that of the winter quarter of last year by 73 per cent. Of the total increase of enrollment in the University almost half, or 1,510 students, has been in this college.

The college has made some improvements. Salaries have been slightly increased, and new members have been added to the faculty to the number of twelve professors, associate and assistant professors and nine instructors. New courses of study have been announced leading to the B. S. degree and offering training for the following fields: Americanization work, Diplomatic and Consular Service, State and Federal Administration, Municipal Administration and Engineering; and a combined course in Arts and Nursing.

With the introduction of the quarter system the faculty last year made some changes in the curriculum and now the advisory committee is hard at work on a thoro revision. It is the hope of the faculty that the requirements to be adopted shall not offer any mechanical obstacles to the student who wishes to secure an education, but shall mark out ways in which any student who will accept the responsibility for himself may find it easy to plan intelligently a real course of higher education during his four years. The faculty, however, cannot and will not attempt to relieve the student of responsibility for his own education. The legislature supplies the trough, the faculty fills it with water, the students come in flocks and droves—and some of them drink.

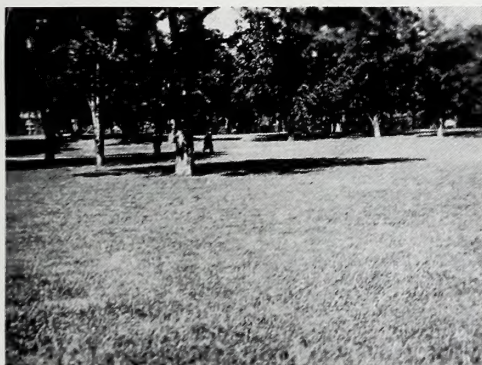

FOLWELL

IN future days, when memory dim
Calls thee to mind,
What varied visions of thy day
There we may find!

The number of thy chimney flues,
Thy slippery stairs,
Thy many class-rooms, offices,
And all their cares;

The Gopher Hole, and that dread place,
Dean Shumway's room;
Thy gaiety of atmosphere,—
And eke thy gloom;

Remembrances of college years
Thy memory fill;
And songs that rise to thee, Folwell,
Be never still!

THE CAMPUS KNOLL

A HAPPY Hunting Ground thou art,
Where man and maid may hunt the
heart,
Or tempt fair Cupid and his dart,
Each balmy spring before we part.

The Seniors grave in balmy May
In somber Cap and Gown array,
On Campus Knoll hold gala day;
And there the Freshmen romp and play.

In winter thou'rt a dazzling white,
But, bathed in summer's mellow light,
A Happy Hunting Ground thou art,
Where man and maid may hunt the heart.

THE LIBRARY

BETWEEN thy grayish walls, O Libe,
Within thy pillared porte,
We find a multitude of things,
Of almost every sort.

To thee the trembling Freshman comes
To register his name.
To thee as students grave we hie
To seek scholastic fame.

In thee the presidential chair
Holds kindly, awful sway;
In thee the history classes meet
To re-live Caesar's day.

From thee emerge three times a year
The records of dread Fate;
To thee we fly when in distress,
And thee—sometimes we hate.

Within thy marble halls, O Libe,
We live and make our lives;
And when this life is done our ghosts
Will browse in thy archives.

AGRICULTURE

R. W. THATCHER

Dean of The Department of Agriculture and Director of The Agricultural Experiment Station

MANY members of the University do not realize that the work of the Department of Agriculture includes much more than "farm school" teaching. As a matter of fact, this department of the University is required by various state and federal laws to do many other things besides teaching the students who come to our various campuses. Depending upon the type of work required, the various functions of the department may be classified and briefly described, as follows:

A. CURRICULIZED INSTRUCTION

This includes all instruction which is organized into regular courses of study, the completion of which entitles the student to a degree or a certificate of graduation. It is of three types:

Graduate work, organized as a part of the Graduate School of the University and under the supervision of the Graduate Committee for Agriculture. During the first term of this year, seventy-six persons were pursuing graduate work in this field, nearly all of them as candidates for the degree of Master of Science or Doctor of Philosophy.

Collegiate work, organized as the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics, in which six hundred and forty-six students were registered during the first term and pursuing work leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, under the same entrance requirements, standards of scholarship, and requirements for graduation, as those of any other college of the University.

Secondary vocational school work in agriculture and home economics. There are three such schools in operation, at University Farm, Crookston and Morris, respectively. A fourth school is being established at Waseca. The total enrollment in these schools during the first term of this year was one thousand and seventy. These students are pursuing courses of study which cover three years of six months each, with supervised project work at home during the two intervening six-month summer periods. This work is vocational in type, and over ninety per cent of the graduates go directly into farm life.

B. SPECIALIZED INSTRUCTION

This includes special vocational instruction to citizens of the state, of all ages, who do not enroll in regular school or college work, but who desire to gain information as to the best methods of farm operation and of rural life.

The short courses comprise definitely organized courses of lectures, demonstrations and practice work covering periods ranging from five days to eight weeks in length. During 1918-19 three thousand three hundred and ninety-nine students attended the fourteen short courses which were held at University Farm, Crookston and Morris.

The Agricultural Extension Service carries the instruction concerning good farming and better living conditions away from the campuses. Thirty-three thousand boys and girls are enrolled in club project work under the supervision of six state leaders and twenty-three county leaders. A county farm bureau is maintained in each of the eighty-six counties, with a county agricultural agent in all but two, and a home demonstration agent in eleven counties. Eighteen demonstration farms are operated under our supervision. Fifty-one thousand farm account books were placed in the hands of cooperating farmers this year. Twelve hundred farmers' clubs and thirty-one hundred cooperative marketing associations are regularly assisted in their work. Thru these and similar enterprises, more than a million persons are each year brought in contact with our agricultural extension work.

C. EXPERIMENT STATION WORK

Research and demonstration work is in active progress on a total of one hundred and ninety-one projects which have been definitely formulated and approved by the proper state and federal authorities. Some of these are in cooperation with the state and United States Departments of Agriculture, but most of them represent our individual contribution to the field of research work in agriculture science and practice. This work is done at the Central University Farm and the seven substations at Crookston, Morris, Grand Rapids, Duluth, Waseca, Cloquet, and Zumbra Heights.

Regulatory and inspection work. Members of the department are either in direct charge of, or cooperate in, the enforcement of the state laws providing for nursery inspection, seed inspection, stallion registration, potato seed certification, forest fire protection, live stock sanitary inspection, and the like.

DEAN E. M. FREEMAN

ALTHO we have had in common with the other colleges of the University a large increase in registration due to the accumulation of the freshman classes during the war, the increase has not been spectacularly large. The organization of our college in its relation to the other agricultural activities of the University has enabled us to meet this increase without any large change in the teaching staff.

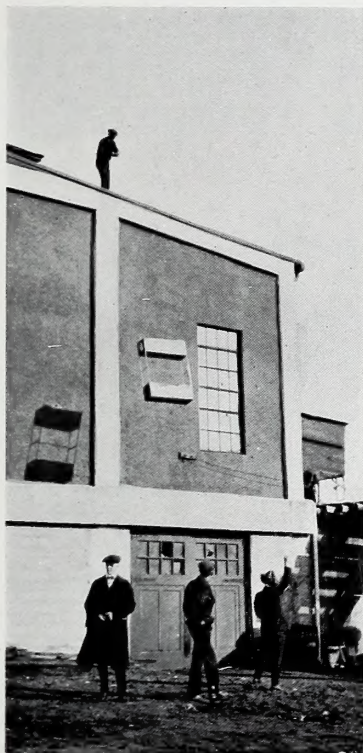

In the Home Economics courses, altho the teacher training work is still the most popular vocational course, rapid progress is being made in the development of the institutional management courses, in the preparation of workers for extension fields and in the graduate fields of study.

A revival of interest in the field of forestry is reflected in an increased registration. There are many signs of a vocational awakening to the necessity for a broader public policy of forest conservation. With the growing scarcity of lumber and wood products the industries related to forestry are offering opportunities which can be more readily interpreted in terms of college training and which are finding a response in the courses offered to students.

In the agricultural courses, the appointment of county agents in every county of the state and the multitudinous other extension activities started during the war, have created an extraordinary demand for specially trained men in the extension field. In addition to this the demands of the industries related to agriculture seem to be increasing while the desire and intention of most of the graduates to own and operate their own farms does not seem to diminish.

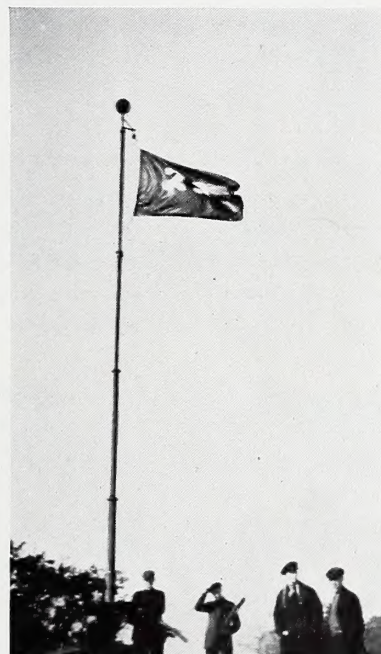

Probably the most significant University activity of the college has been the cooperative efforts it has initiated to make available to students in any college of the University, group curricula of courses in the several colleges, for the special purpose of vocational preparation in the fields covered by no special college or only partially by several colleges of the University.

THE SOPH-FROSH ENTER BATTLE

THE 1919-1920 sophomore-freshman scrap was modern in its violence. It commenced during the first part of October with the order for the frosh caps being disregarded, and continued with bloodless fierceness until the afternoon of the mighty battle when the wilful Freshmen defeated their dominating advisers by a score of 54 to 45.

So modern was the fight that the Freshmen secured the services of Nick Mamer of the Federated Fliers. The Sophomores retaliated (if reports of their press agents be true) by a gas and flame attack, which finally downed the frosh banner that had been flying defiantly on the top of the smokestack since the day Mamer placed it there. This, after numerous contrivances of kites and fish-hooks had failed to bring down the despised banner.

NOTHING DAUNTED THOSE COLORS

Miles Drije was the frosh that brought gloom to the hearts of the Sophs. When he fell on the leanest pig owned by the department of agriculture and held fast to the slippery hams in spite of the squealing objections, everybody knew that it was hoodoo that had followed the luckless Sophomores all the way—for this event decided the meet in favor of the frosh, even if George Cooper's strategy won the next vent, the pushball contest. In the wrestling match Cooper added brawn to brain and easily threw his freshman opponent.

The first-year men paid dearly for their victory when they were ushered into the presence (in the late afternoon) of their late opponents. Many a barrel stave was relegated to kindling during that affair, and many Freshmen affirm that they "walked the floor" during the night.

He looked wildly about him, scanning eagerly each leafless branch and twig, every inch of the ground. Slowly he crawled on his knees over the wet driveway and in and out among the prickly bushes. As he progressed on his way, searching, hunting, scanning, the friendly glow of an electric arc light helped him and even cheered him. The further he progressed, the more aimless, the wilder and more frantic he became. Little by little he had covered every inch of the way, but nowhere could it be found. Gone—gone. How could he ever face them; and he dared not but stand erect before them. Surely the object of his searching must be of great value. Slowly, very slowly, he approached the porch, slowly he mounted the steps—the porch light flashed on, and then—"Where's your green cap?" boomed out this horrible sentence at him.

FRIEND QUIZ IS DEAD

AT CAMP—TWENTY-FOUR HOURS BY THE CLOCK

6 A. M.—Daylight in the swamp—Buck Ostrowski's fog horn voice, Doc Grabow arises. A few pet words and the rest of the crew hit the deck, don the bathing suits—do a hundred yards in nothing flat—plunge—do hundred back to shack in less than nothing flat. The hardy crew crabs because there is no ice in the lake to keep the water cool.

7 A. M.—Chow gong starts race for cook shack. Schmidt wins the porcupine mattress with a record of 27 hot cakes.

8:30 A. M.—E. G. Cheney appears. He tells his morning joke; gives directions as to how to cruise the "Pyramid Forty" and the mosquito fight is on. The woods resound with Norway, 3-fourteens and a 16, White Pine 16-17-22-26 and a 30. The above voice culture continues until 11:30 and the "Pyramid Forty" is cruised. The mosquito bitten admirers of Paul Bunyan emerge from the jungles and hit the trail for camp.

12 M.—The mail arrives—many letters but no candy—tuff luck.

12:15 P. M.—The noon repast is devoured by the ravenous crew. Schmidt again wins.

1-1:27½ P. M.—Sleep the sleep of a corn cob drugged forester. Ambitious Tilden starring.

1:27½-1:30—J. P. Wentling awaits without, without what? Without quiz papers. Let him in.

1:30-2:30 P. M.—A long cross-country race follows.

FRIEND PIPE

2:30-2:35—Stop at spring, J. P. not thirsty, gains a lap.

2:35—Wentling's silhouette sighted on horizon—Pendergast, "where is the fire?"

2:35-5 P. M.—Double time nine miles. J. P. overtaken by hardy crew. Arrive at camp.

5-5:45 P. M.—Refreshing swim.

5:45-6 P. M.—Beards driven back. Poison Ivy Shaving Lotion produces "The Skin You Love to Touch."

6-6:30 P. M.—Chow.

6:30—Butterfly Jack and Grasshopper Bill left behind to guard their treasured zoological collection. They never did like women. Vamps, here's your chance.

6:30-12—The evening struggle at Douglas Lodge. Shimming Pieck and Dwyer in their glory.

12-1 A. M.—Paddle back to camp—the wooded shores resounding with parodies known only to foresters.

1-1:30 A. M.—The first morning swim.

1:30-5:55 A. M.—Slumber interrupted only by Butterfly Jack's attempts to ride a nightmare without saddle or spurs, Red Whiton saws his usual cord to the tune of "Good by, Ladies."

NOW REGARDING THE SOCIAL BACTERIOLOGY

A WOMAN is a germ. Some women are saprophytic and others are pathogenic. A saprophytic woman is one that you meet every day without being at all impressed by her. A pathogenic woman is one that has powers to detract you from your normal course of activities. The bacteriological name of a woman is B. feminis. The various strains of B. feminis are:

- (1) B. feminis subtilis
- (2) B. femina pulcherrima
- (3) B. femina vampiria

The pathogenicity of the various strains varies with two factors:

- (1) Their invasive powers—i. e., the right kind of smile and the right kind of eye would melt even a Physics Prof.
- (2) Their toxin producing power—i. e., their ability to make you take them to chop suey, "Met," movies, dances, etc., when you know darned well that you ought to be studying.

N. B.—Their pathogenicity does not depend directly and only upon any one of these factors, but rather upon the whole group of them collectively.

There are four main channels of infection:

- (1) the dance.
- (2) the voice.
- (3) the smile.
- (4) flirtation.

There are only two remedies:

- (1) go where there are no women.
- (2) marry.

B. feminis subtilis is a Gram positively charming organism with four beautiful actively motile flagella. It has a terminal spora which is covered for the most part (in young specimens) with a fibrous mass varying in color from white to black, altho the latter color indicates greater pathogenicity. Its cultural features are distinctive: It reduces your pocket book, precipitates your morale, and often causes dyspepsia. It produces a decided effect on all males, chiefly water on the brain.

IMMUNITY

With regard to immunity, men may be divided into two general classes:

(1) Those who are, by some mighty stroke of luck, absolutely immune to all strains of B. feminis.

(2) Those who are not absolutely immune.

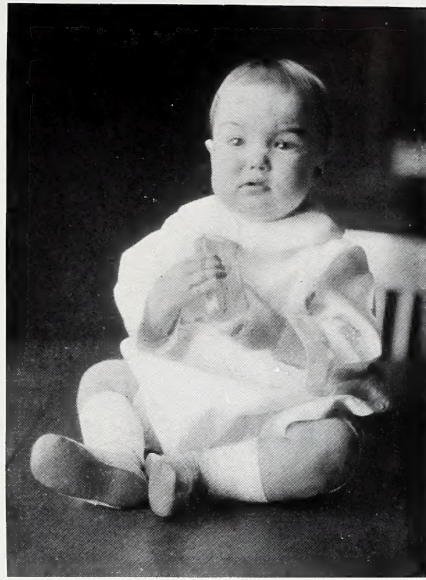

(a) Those who have acquired a partial immunity thru contact with all the various strains of B. feminis. In other words, they have acquired a partial immunity by being injected with increased successive doses of the toxin, and have gradually learned how to manufacture an anti-toxin.

(b) Those who never will be immune.

BEFORE

HURRAY FOR THE HOME ECS

ALTHO the best historians fail to mention the fact that Home Economics has played a tremendous part in the history of the world, their silence on the subject is not due to the fact that this statement is not true. But coming down to brass tacks, we gotta admit that the World War was due to the lack of home economics trained women and men in the world in general. Statistics show that the women of Belgium and France and Ireland know a whole lot more about vitamins, and all that sorta junk (you know what I mean) than the women of Germany. If Mrs. Bill Hohenzollern hadda known more about pasteurized milk and about how the pericardium of the brain could get infected by little bugs in the air, why, then the Kaiser would never have gotten such silly notions into his noodle. Also, if his wife had known better how to make sauerkraut, speck, etc., he wouldn't ever have got the notion to get some real grub like in Ireland, for instance. It woulda been all right if Mrs. Hohenzollern had only taken a course in home economics at the University of Minnesota.

BUSINESS

MF

DEAN G. W. DOWRIE

THE School of Business was established on the eighteenth of June, last year, having been created out of the department of Economics of the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts. In order to give a distinctly professional atmosphere to the work of training business executives, the regents provided that only the last two years of the four-year course should be spent in the School of Business itself, the first two being given to a pre-business course in the Arts College. Because so few students had had the subjects embodied in the pre-business program, this year's registration is naturally quite small, but the large number of pre-business Freshmen and Sophomores gives warning of what is in store.

It is a difficult task to undertake to give to our future business leaders in the short space of four years the broad cultural training properly associated with a university degree, combined with thoro preparation for the work they are to follow. Some day prospective young business men and women will be willing to devote six or more years to their university preparation, just as is now the case in other professions. For the present, however, we have on our hands the task of justifying in the eyes of a skeptical constituency the value of the study of French and "pollywogs" to a youth who is restlessly awaiting his opportunity to acquire a fortune. With such a task mapped out for us, no wonder that we are a bit oversensitive when a young lady from Devils Lake or Broken Bow writes to inquire if we can guarantee her "eighteen a week" if she takes a six months' course in our "Business College."

Looking back over the year's accomplishments, aside from our getting under way and initiating a staff, largely made up of new comers, the outstanding items are the development of a splendid esprit de corps in the school itself and the manifestation of a fine spirit of cooperation on the part of the business men of the Twin Cities. Most of the credit for the former is due to the students themselves. Thru the activities of their "Commerce Club" they have been brought closer together and have discussed the problems of business over their "coffee and sinkers" under the leadership of some prominent banker or business man of the Twin Cities.

DEAN L. W. JONES

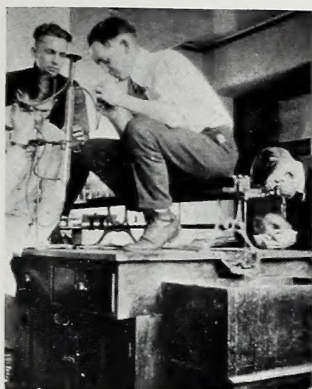

THE year 1919-20 has been an eventful one in the history of the School of Chemistry. At the opening of the fall quarter the capacity of the laboratories to house students who came from the various schools and colleges of the University was found to be inadequate. The enrollment in the school amounted to something over two thousand students, or about five hundred more than have ever enrolled in this school. It soon became apparent that larger quarters would be needed to obviate increasing difficulties which would occur next year. Fortunately, the President and the Board of Regents have found it possible to relieve this situation, authorizing the completion of the fourth wing and the roof of the present building.

It is expected that the plans will be ready for building operations early in the spring and that the work will go forward as rapidly as possible with the hope that these quarters may be available early in the fall.

This change in facilities of the school will furnish ample laboratory space for elementary courses and advanced courses in chemistry and will enable the school to provide suitable quarters for experimental work in connection with Chemical Engineering, so much needed at the present time.

The appointment of Dean Jones as dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture has brought under the same administrative control the School of Chemistry and the College of Engineering and Architecture. This will bring about a closer cooperation between students interested in chemical engineering and those who are pursuing courses in engineering departments of the University. It is expected that this affiliation will work to the great advantage of all students interested in engineering courses. These changes in policy represent very fortunate conditions for the School of Chemistry, and point to a bright future in years to come.

ELEMENTS OF CHEMISTRY

APRIL 1—National holiday declared for all chemists because Strom got an “A” in carbon dioxide.

MAY 1—Freshman chemist class is dismissed so that all members may participate in the Bolsheviki Parade.

JULY 1—Fourteen private stills destroyed in the chemistry building.

NOVEMBER 2—Dr. Geiger loses a checker game.

NOVEMBER 16—Sophs have tri-weekly tea party on the roof.

NOVEMBER 24—Cornell introduces his new quantitative method—“In God we trust.”

DECEMBER 1—Rube Ellestad outbevos the rest of the crowd at brewery.

DECEMBER 22—Nygaard introduces his new song “When Father’s Floating Kidney comes to Shore.”

THE VILLAGE CHEMIST

(With Apologies)

IN the close aromatic lab
The bony chemist lurks.
He is, you know, an irate crab,
And works by fits and jerks—
And when no one is looking,
He is pretty apt to shirk.

His desk is full of tubes and flasks,
Which are ready for the can;
His face is full of acid fumes,
He spills whate'er he can;
He looks the whole mess in the face
And begins all over again.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
You can hear him cuss and swear,
As he drops a beaker now and then
And putrifies the air—
Like the stockyards do to Minneapolis,
When the wind is blowing fair.

And academics going home at noon
Look in the smoky door;
They love to hear him fume and roar
And spill solutions on the floor,
And catch the angry words that fly,
As he starts his work once more.

He goes one day unto his prof,
To hand in a solution,
You can see him squirm and jerk,
As he awaits the prof's conclusion,
And then to his consternation,
The professor says "Another fusion."

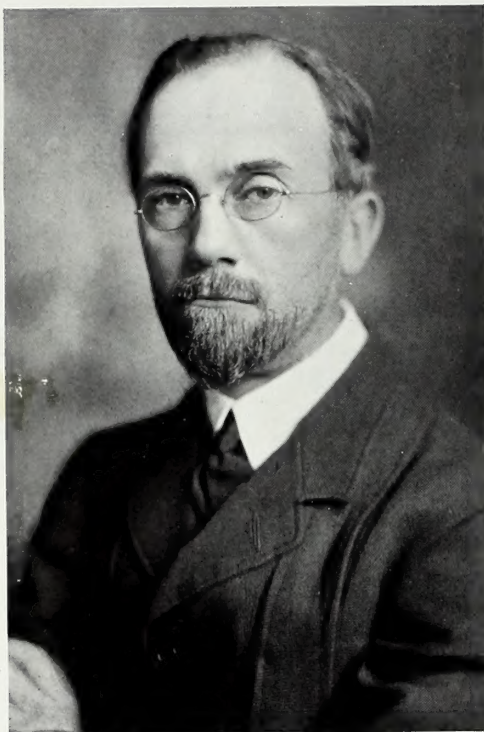

He sees a bottle of nitro-glycerin
Calling him to Paradise,
He needs must think of it once more,
As so harmless there it lies;
And then with his acid hand he wipes
The bromine out of his eyes.

Fusing, mixing, diluting,
Onward thru life he goes,
Each morning sees a problem begun,
Each evening in the sink it flows;
Something omitted, something added,
Makes the undertaker's fortune grow.

Thanks, thanks, to thee, thou crazy boob,
For the lesson you gave to me,
The day you dropped that T. N. T.
I gave up chemistry.
Now each can on his wayward flight
The chemist's scattered atoms see.

DENTISTRY

DEAN ALFRED OWRE

IT seems to me that our chief concern, as we review the present situation in the College of Dentistry, is to realize clearly that dentistry in general is in a state of flux, which will in the not far distant future crystallize into something bigger and finer than the dentistry of the past half-century.

The most significant development in this direction has been the approach, thru the medium of the five-year course, of the dental curriculum to the medical curriculum. It is only a comparatively short time since dentistry fell from its ancient position as a specialty in medicine to that of a commercial undertaking, with a curriculum concerned chiefly with tinkering. The return, now under way, to its ancient status as one division of the field of medicine, is wholly to be desired. It is more and more generally recognized that since dentistry deals with human tissue it requires the same foundation in biological studies as its parent, medicine, that no merely mechanical training can prepare the student for what is essentially a branch of surgery. The fact that recent revolutionary discoveries concerning the relation of mouth diseases to the general health have been made, not by dentists, but by medical men, is telling evidence of the need for a thoroly scientific basis in dentistry. Such the University expects ultimately to provide. The ideal for the not far distant future is a merging of the College of Dentistry with that of Medicine, and the attainment of a common degree.

Oh, My —

I felt his soft breath on my cheek,
The touch of his firm hand—
His very presence near me seemed
A breeze on desert sand.

Without a pause he sought my lips,
My head he did enfold,
Then broke the silence with: "I think I'll fill this one with gold."

"Got any scars on you?"
"Why, no, I thought all army men rolled their own."

DEAR DRILL:

The University of Lavoris humbled Listerine College today on the Oral Gridiron by a score of 12 to 0. Lavoris won the kick-off. Mouth Wash kicked off to Whiskey. Whiskey downed in his tracks. Saliva made five rods thru Cotton-roll. Rubber Dam stopped Saliva for a loss. Eugenal stopped Toothache in his tracks. Molar was thrown for a loss by Forceps. Listerine forced to punt and Pyorrhea tackled Incisor vigorously. Chisel tore off four yards around Enamel. Enamel was unable to hold. Dentine stopped Chisel for a loss. Bur kicked thru Dentine on a beautiful fissure play for 15 yards. Hypodermic went in. Hypodermic shot thru Germ for 3 yards. On the 5-yard line Arsenic carried the ball thru Nerve for a touchdown. Score of Lavoris 6, Listerine 0. Broach went in as Nerve went out. Gutta Percha went in for Nerve. Half ended.

Second Half. Listerine kicked off. Pus got the ball and went thru the System on first play for seven yards. Cement failed to hold Filling and Amalgam went in. Decay went around Amalgam for first down. Inlay on extended margin plays throws Decay for a loss. Amalgam out. Crown went in for Amalgam. Plate failed to hold and Henry Boos went in. Boos and Impression held Plate for the third down. Physics went in for Constipation. On a fumble, Physics went thru entire Lavoris team for 50 yards. Rubber-dam stopped Saliva. Boylan and Dunn went in. Boylan grabbed fumble. Dunn went thru Ed Murphy for forty-seven yards. Boylan gets 47 more off Hogan. Dunn and Boylan scored a touchdown. Score: Lavoris 12, Listerine 0. Dunn and Boylan mentioned for All-American. Murphy and Hogan mentioned for all-Mexican. End of second half.

Yours,

MALLOT.

EDVCATION

DEAN L. D. COFFMAN

THE distinctive purpose of the College of Education is to train teachers for the public schools of Minnesota. It limits its work to the training of high school teachers and administrative and supervisory officers. The need of well-trained teachers is constantly increasing. The demand for competent teachers is shown by the fact that during the year 1918-19, the College of Education had eight hundred and sixty requests for teachers, and only one hundred and twenty-nine teachers properly certificated to fill the positions. During war times the average monthly salary of those accepting positions upon graduation from the College of Education increased twenty-nine per cent. The older and more experienced graduates received salaries ranging from nine hundred to two thousand dollars per year.

The administration of the College of Education is of the opinion that two things are essential in the training of teachers: a liberal knowledge of the subject or subjects one expects to teach, and an intensive and highly technical training in the more strictly professional aspects of his field. To achieve these ends the College of Education maintains the closest possible affiliation with those colleges in which the subject matter of the various secondary school subjects is taught.

The administration of the College of Education also maintains that over and above and in addition to the training one receives in any college, he acquires something else, more intangible, but none the less real, and that something we are disposed to call the craft spirit. The craft spirit may come as the result of long and successful experience or it may result from contact during training with a dynamic personality. No college can supply an adequate substitute for experience, and it may not always have as many dynamic personalities as it desires; but it does provide an opportunity for those who are imbued with common purposes, common hopes, and common desires to mingle and associate with each other, and this, after all, is one of the primary factors in the development of a craft spirit. By agreement with the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts, beginning with the year 1919-20, all intending teachers are required to register in the College of Education at the beginning of the junior year.

THESE DAYS

WE used to be in S. L. A.
Those were the happy days,
But we had to get accustomed
To the Education ways.

We used to gabble blithely
O'Shelley's lays,
We now discuss profoundly
Every educator's craze.

All of Pestalozzi's theories
Are clear as air to us.
And how Rousseau brought up Emile;
And Froebel we discuss.

Every grave old Greek philosopher,
We know from A to Z,
And we dwell on Roman methods
At an educative tea.

With all the other colleges
We're falling into step,
And tho we're educators
We have not lost our pep.

DR. SWIFT: "What do you think of this psychology experiment?"

LILLIAN NELSON: "I don't believe it was fair. I think the students knew the purpose of the experiment."

DR. SWIFT: "Oh, you are one of these suspicious brunettes."

Rah, Rah, Rah!
We are Education Girls.
We are Practical and Nice.
Rah, Rah, Rah!

DR. SWIFT: "The Connecticut Code is of what importance?"

MISS LANG: "Oh, we haven't had that."

DR. SWIFT: "Who said we haven't had that?" Down goes a flunk.

We wonder whether Dr. Swift is preparing the young women in his class for teachers or home makers.

Side Lights on Dr. Swift

In calling the roll in a large class Dr. Swift used the word "Misses" to be applied to all the succeeding names; but he received a strenuously protesting "Sir?" from the girl whose name was first called, for she was no "Mrs."; she was going to be a school teacher.

DR. SWIFT (two days before the final): "I shall assign only this one book for tomorrow."

STUDENT: "But, Dr. Swift, when will we get time to study exams?"

DR. SWIFT: "My dear child, you should have been reviewing a half hour every night. If you hadn't been sitting around making fudge and knitting wristers you would be ready for your finals. And besides, you didn't give me any—and if you had, I would flunk you anyway."

A SAD STORY

EDITOR'S NOTE: You don't know what this is; we don't know either. It was copped from an "Educator's" notebook. Help us guess.

WITH my little piece learned and rehearsed for the afternoon's ordeal I mounted to the beauty college of Madame Florence De Guile. The way, however, had been paved, and before I could swallow a self conscious grin and matriculate according to the letter of the law I was bound, sans coat, collar and vest, with a white gowned female making passes at me with an electric massager.

Just in time I gurgled a protest and was promptly rushed down the hall to a cozy nook where an open faced damsel marcelled my upper hirsute adornments.

A rival of Beau Brummel from the neck up, my next sojourn was in a Nicollet Avenue window as conspicuous as a wart on a classmate's nose. The table also happened to be the center of the shop. A lovely mademoiselle with a pimple on her lily white neck just revealed by a what you may call 'um that wouldn't stay down put a million dollar shine on my food conveyors. While there I learned the solution of that most vital of questions, What made the wild cat wild. Surrounded by fifteen booths containing members of the opposite sex in various stages of dis-habile and beauty the inside dope was spilled. The cause of beaucoup titterings and snappy remarks, words fail me and I must continue my course of study.

“OUR FUTURE LIES BEHIND US”

A Tragedy in One Act

TIME

The dim future.

Curtain rises, disclosing a deserted school-room. The conjugation of “Amo” sprinkled over the blackboard denotes that it is a Latin recitation room. Mary is seated at the desk writing rapidly. The teacher sits at her desk. She is middle-aged, with a haggard face and haunted eyes; straggly wisps of greying hair are straying from the knob at the back of her neck.

TEACHER (She looks up despondently from the mass of papers on her desk): “Haven’t you finished those translations yet, Mary?”

MARY: “Yes, ma’am. I wuz just going to ask you if I could go, ma’am.”

TEACHER: “Yes, Mary, you may. Bring me your papers.”

(Mary brings her papers and leaves the room.)

TEACHER (She plows wearily thru the papers and moans once or twice): “Who would have thought I would come to this?”

(She glances furtively around the room; then drags a large, well-worn volume from a desk drawer. As she opens it the name “Gopher 1921” is revealed.)

TEACHER (Going thru Album): “I wasn’t so bad looking then. There’s Mary. She wasn’t any better looking than I was, and she married a millionaire and is living in New York City. Here are Virginia Norby, Mildred Hogan, and Mabel Boss. They are married, too. Ruth Carlson is managing Wannamaker’s department store and Frances is head of the National Bureau of Education in Washington. They used to tell me that I had a future before me, but look at me now. I even used to go to parties then.”

TEACHER (A paper falls to the floor. In picking it up she finds a note near the waste basket): “H’mmm, what’s this?” (Reads): “I’m going to get into the fourth period Latin class next term. This teacher is the worst cut and dried old maid I ever saw.”

TEACHER (Turning back to 1921 Gopher): “Why, I believe that is a picture of the riverbank. I wonder who that girl and man are. Why, could it be? It is. I remember now. If I only dared to show that picture to some of my pupils.”

TEACHER (Crumples Latin papers and cries bitterly): “My future—my future—our future lies behind us.” (Curtain falls.)

MORAL: “Let us laugh, primp and be pretty, for tomorrow we become passées.”

ENGINEERING AND

DEAN L. W. JONES

ON July first Dean Allen resigned his position as dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture in order to take up research work as director of investigations which are being carried out in the Bureau of Mines Station at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, thru the cooperation of the Bureau of Mines and the National Society of Heating and Ventilating. The departure of Dean Allen from the College of Engineering and Architecture was a serious loss to this particular college and the University as a whole. Later in the summer Dean L. W. Jones, in charge of the School of Chemistry, was appointed to serve as dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture. At the time of his appointment, President Burton thru action taken by the Board of Regents, announced a future policy for the University which has great significance for the College of Engineering and Architecture as well as the School of Chemistry. It is the intention of the administration to group various schools and colleges directly or indirectly concerned with students in technology under one administrative head in order that there may be intimate and direct association of all of these interests on the University campus. This plan has untold possibilities for the College of Engineering and Architecture. It will be a matter of many years before the development of this plan can be put into complete operation.

The growth of the College of Engineering and Architecture has been a steady one in the past. This fall, however, the curve took a sudden upward trend. In the past the enrollment of students in this college has never exceeded five hundred and thirty. When the registration was completed this fall the records showed an enrollment of eleven hundred and fifty. In other words, in a single year the enrollment has increased more than a hundred per cent. In order that a large group of students of this character may be taken care of adequately it will be necessary to make great expansion in teaching force and to plan enlargements to our present buildings, as well as the construction of new buildings. It is hoped that these matters will be taken care of and that the building for the Department of Electrical Engineering may be only one of the buildings undertaken to relieve the situation now existing in the College of Engineering and Architecture.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Engineers liked this so well they wanted it reprinted, so here goes:

Someone asked "Why is an Engineer?"

E—Energy—That's what keeps 'em up late.

N—Nerve—Ask yourself.

G—Genius—Take a look at the parade.

I—Intellect—They think so.

N—Noted—They KNOW that.

E—Efficient—Making the round trip for a "jit."

E—Eclat—Know ye that sooner or later.

R—Royal—The Knights of St. Pat.

Wait a minute, maybe R stands for Rough—so says H. Hank.

After a Formal Introduction

CORDUROY: "Yes, I'm an Engineer."

SERGE: "I'm an Academic, pure and simple."

CORDUROY: "You're a truthful guy, I'll say."

The Witty Engineer's Answer

"What is the most valuable thing you have received in your college course?"

"My allowance"

"A poker face"

"Checks"

"Discharge papers from the S. A. T. C."

"Art of bluffing"

"Learned to load scientifically"

"An education"

"My diploma"

"Broadening outlook on life"

THE BAG RUSH.

ENGINEERS' DAY

THE day was a beautiful semi-spring day, a little cool but sunshiny. The parade was to start at twelve noon. Along about eleven a big snow storm came up. But snow storm or no snow storm at noon, the word to start was given and the long line of tractors, clowns and asserted stunts moved toward the Post Office.

The Minnesota Union held "open house" for the day; and the "Daily" got out a special eight-page edition printed in green.

In the afternoon the Engineers were hosts to the University. At three o'clock the Knighting Ceremony took place in the Experimental Building. President Burton, Registrar Pierce, and Dean Jones were knighted first, and directly after them the Senior Engineering Class. After the ceremony, choice music was to be found on the fourth floor of the Main Engineering Building.

The grand ball started at nine. About ten the door burst open and an automobile rushed in on the scene. Muffled "what the hell"s were quite audible. Five wild "cops" jumped out. The head "cop" demanded the three engineers who were managing the dance. After half an hour the "Minneapolis Daily News" had out an wxytry telling all about the University Engineers defaming the name of St. Patrick.

Dean Beggs recently refused to allow the architects to hold their festival and dance on the famous architects' parapet on the fourth floor of the Main Engineering building because she maintained that it would require too many chaperons to police this roof garden on a moonlight night.

The campanile, a model of the proposed soldiers' memorial, after participating in the parade, occupied a prominent position in the Armory on the night of the Engineers' ball. It is a typical example of the architects' ingenuity.

Did you ever notice—the Academic walks about looking as tho he owned the campus, but the Engineer goes around as tho he doesn't give a damn who owns it.

Altho the "Camel" is still the popular fag, the Engineers predict a growing demand for the return of the "Oasis." Psychological effect, doncha know.

THE ENGINEER

An Autobiography

INTO the drawers and lockers,
 And into the pockets, too;
 Then over the hill to the hockers
 Before there's a hullabaloo.
 We'll pawn the instrument cases,
 And sell the slide rules for cash;
 Nor lose the Law's good graces,
 Because, in case of a crash:

"We're working our way thru college,
 We're working our way thru school
 And our lives you will wreck
 If you jump on our neck,
 So you couldn't be so Crool."

We'll rob them while they eat pork chops
 Like desperadoes bold,
 Then over the hill to the pawn-shops
 Before their lunch gets cold!
 And if the fur coats are heavy,
 And if we get caught on the way,
 A tax on their heart-strings we'll levy,
 And slowly and tearfully say:

"We're working our way thru college,
 We're working our way thru school,
 And if you won't forgive
 Then we don't want to live,
 So you couldn't be so CROOL!"

THE ARCHITECTURAL DEPARTMENT

THE Architectural Department in the last few years has definitely taken its place on the campus, as one of the branches of university education. Thru its art work in the Gopher and general poster work, it has come to be recognized as a center of art at Minnesota.

The close cooperation of the students and faculty brings about an individual interest in the work and a feeling of good fellowship which permits the old system of discipline to be abolished. It is no hardship for the students to work until the night watchman turns them out in the small hours of the morning.

Prof. S. Chatwood Burton's Familiar Quotations

"Freedom is the secret of virtuosity"
 "Half close your eyes"
 "Art for art's sake"
 "Medium is a matter of whim"
 "Subtle"

Oh, we are the Architects, tra la, the wearers of the smock,
 We burn the midnight oil tra la, but long is the road to art tra la,
 Oh, we are the Architects tra la, you know us for our fame,
 We beautify the world tra la, esthetics is our middle name,
 We're the decorating, beauty making, record breaking, syncopating, esquisse making, Architects—ha ha.

You'll find the engineering section either "raw" or "hard boiled." Take your choice, there's no "medium."

Remember, "In the days of real sport," when we could get a "big one" for a nickel. Today it's ten bucks for the "essence of suicide."

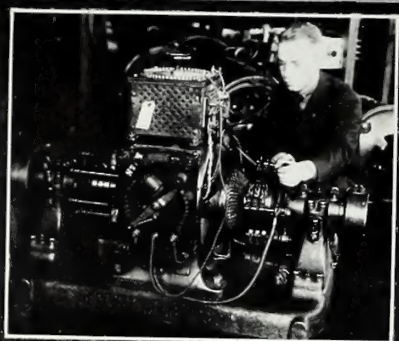

But, "Ain't it a grand an' glorious feelin'" to get up without a headache?

An Engineer passed a "fur coated cootie" on the campus. A whiff of nicotine—a breath of wisteria. And both murmured, "That reminds me of some one I know."

The "U of M" A. E. no longer serve that welcome cider, since President Wilson got well.

• GRADUATE •

DEAN G. S. FORD

IN the old school readers there used to be a story of the school boy who sought to run away from the master, Hugh Toil. I believe it was written by Nathaniel Hawthorne, but in my mind it was so integral a part of the reader that Hawthorne had only that faint claim to authorship derived from an index which was never consulted. The upshot of the story was that the boy found the brothers of Hugh Toil at every turn of the road and finally in the very companion who had joined him as he trudged along. The undergraduate student, from Freshman to Senior, is in contact with the Graduate School at Minnesota thruout his course, but unlike the boy rarely recognizes its features. He meets it at every turn of his college career, but goes out from college ignorant of its existence, but not unaffected, I hope, by its presence and spirit.

As things are at Minnesota today, it is the Freshman and the Senior in almost every undergraduate, non professional school, who is in as close contact with the Graduate School as the graduate student himself. There is, for instance, in the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts, no large Freshman Class that is not in charge of a professor whose scholarship and experience have brought him a place on our Graduate School faculty. If the class is subdivided for quiz and discussion, many of these sections are in charge of members of the staff who are here, because they find at Minnesota an opportunity for advanced study as students themselves in the Graduate School. They may not be in technique the most finished teachers, but their own zest for knowledge and their nearness in years make them more sympathetic and approachable and helpful. And thus the Freshman in both the assembly for lectures and the divisions for discussion is in intimate contact with the Graduate School.

Every upper classman who registers for a course in the hundred group is constantly under the instruction of men and women who are members of the Graduate School faculty. The training and contributions to scholarship of some of these draw graduate students from all parts of America and from abroad. You will always be proud of graduating from Minnesota, and some day you will find that an element in your pride is the fact that among your instructors there have been a few who stand as leaders in their special fields.

JUST GRADS

GRADUATES are a curious people, not of the regular student body, not of the faculty, but between them, condescending to the one, aspiring to the other. Disliked if they too much pretend the dignity of those with authority; frowned upon if they display the frivolity of the undergraduate; they waver uncertainly between the two. They are a tribe, not a clan, a handful in each college. United in spirit, but scattered in the flesh, they cannot well club together, or their strength would be mighty and astonishing to the campus. Undergraduates plague them with innumerable questions; professors heap upon them all the work they dare not give mere Juniors and Seniors. They are to be recognized by a lost, harassed look—these graduates. Their's is a hard life.

LE SINGE VERT

SOME of the most notorious graduates on the campus lunch at a queer little Bohemian café, called Le Singe Vert. It is hidden in the "university slums." The proprietor is the original Mr. Salteena of the "Young Visitors." Every day these grads indulge in food, song and wit. Others who frequent the café to gain physical sustenance, pause in their lunch to listen to the merry throng and catch the subtle humor which makes the rounds. A stenographer follows them to take down their every word. Who knows where Le Singe Vert is?

LAW

DEAN W. R. VANCE

THE Law School, which during the period of the war contributed more than nine-tenths of its entire student membership to the service in all its branches, has fully recovered from the depletion of its forces. All classes are once more large—indeed larger than at any time since the present entrance requirements were adopted. The effect of military discipline, of the increased perception of the value of thoro training, and of the loftier ideals which the struggle planted in the minds of men and women, is plainly noticeable in the spirit prevailing thruout the school. One proof of the increased interest in the study of law is found in the crowded condition of the library, a condition which if not soon remedied will interfere with the efficiency of the institution.

Dean Vance, having completed his service as general counsel for the Legal Division of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, has returned and thruout the year has been actively guiding the affairs of the school. Professor Edward S. Thurston, who left the school for the purpose of entering the military service and after serving in the office of the judge advocate general at Washington accompanied the army to Russia as lieutenant colonel, on his return accepted a call to the Yale Law School. His place has been filled by the appointment of Professor Noel T. Dowling. Professor Dowling was graduated from Columbia University Law School, class of 1912, member of the Department of Legislation at Columbia from 1912 to 1917, assigned from February, 1914, to August, 1915, as special counsel of the United States Industrial Commission. During the war he served as major judge advocate, as associate counsel, and later as assistant director of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. In other respects the faculty remains as before. Mr. A. C. Pulling, librarian of the Law School, has returned from service as librarian for the Judge Advocate General's Department in Washington, where he attained the rank of captain. In addition to his duties as librarian he has resumed his function as assistant editor of the Minnesota Law Review.

The Law Review is now in its fourth year, and is enjoying a gratifying degree of prosperity. Its circulation, especially among the lawyers of Minnesota and the Dakotas, is steadily increasing.

A special court martial is hereby appointed to meet at the Banquet Room, Men's Union, at the right time, or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the trial of the following persons:

Captain K. V. Riley	} "Ernie," of the alumni, not present. Delayed in transit, en route from Ortonville. (see note.)
Ensign Bryan Gilkinson
Captain Claire I. Weikert
Corporal David Lundeen

NOTE: Box cars will be returned to private control before next banquet.

Now I will tell you what it is.

Gentlemen, the law is a stern mistress. She demands the toil of the night and the toil of the day.

I hesitate to venture an opinion on this point.

Now, Mr. X, what is this case of——

Now, throw away your notes and tell me what this case is about.

Yes, it would seem so, but the court held not.

This is a very pretty case. It would indeed be interesting to delve into the positive law on this subject, but we can not tarry. We must hurry on.

 The Non-Partisan Leaguer?
 He who always straightens you out?

Law Students

FRESHMEN: Distinguished by their air of deep learning and post-mortems after exams. Ready and willing to discuss any topic under the sun whether they know about it or not.

MID-LAWS: Can be readily recognized by their O. D. shirts; noted for saying, "I have not got this case, Mr. X."

SENIORS: Rather a reversion to the Freshman type. Trip around with important legal documents and have confidential chats with Miss Gregory as to standings, excuses for delay in practice court work, and chances to get credit from the Dean in subjects they have never taken.

LAW REVIEW BOARD STUDENTS: A class by themselves, especially the president and the editors. Are to be revered but are mostly laughed at.

MEDICINE

DEAN E. P. LYONS

THE Medical School, during the past year, has substantially recovered from the effects of the war. About sixty members of the faculty were in service. These have returned and taken up their duties.

The headships made vacant by the death of Drs. J. E. Moore and Frank C. Todd have been filled by Dr. A. C. Strachauer (one of our alumni) as chief of surgery, and Dr. William Murray, as chief of eye, ear, nose and throat diseases.

The distinguishing scholastic feature of the year has been the introduction of the student internship. This is a six months' residency as junior intern as part of the regular four-year course. We offer such internships only in the three associated hospitals, viz: the University Hospital, the Minneapolis City Hospital, and the City and County Hospital in St. Paul.

To inaugurate this improvement, the Medical School has gone definitely on the four-quarter system. Half of the new Junior Class starts in June immediately on completing the sophomore year. By attending continuously this division saves six months on the regular medical course. The second division takes the regular vacations and thus follows the first division in the student internship, six months later. Thus the hospitals are used for teaching purposes the year around, and the student gets a more intimate and practical training than heretofore.

While this new plan, which was originated here, is to be looked upon as in the experimental stage, we believe it will succeed; and already several other institutions are contemplating putting it into operation.

"THE TALE OF A GERM"

IT was in the early morning and a colony of microbes were assembled in the cave of Retzius, where they were holding a convocation for the purpose of bidding farewell to one of their members who was starting out for foreign lands to explore uncharted regions.

The walls of the intestines were gaily decorated in honor of the occasion, and as the adventurous youth crossed the pelvic floor the bands of Fascia broke forth with martial strains.

The hardy microbe set forth upon his journeys, and many were the strange sights that he saw. He walked beneath the arch of the Aorta and from the crest of the Ilium he looked down upon the head of the Femur. For many days the brave youth sailed up the alimentary canal on a floating rib, and on this highway met countless numbers of his kind who urged him to stop, tempting him with mellow gastric juice. He traveled on, however, until at last he reached the Isthmus of the Thyroid, where he tied his boat to the vocal cord and ascended the Ridge of the Clavicle. Hungry from his labors he climbed the Carotid Trunk and picked the Apple of Adam from a twig far out on one of its branches. Following along a nerve path down from the Apex of the lung the adventurous microbe reached the base of the Tongue, but here a sad misfortune overtook him, for he fell on the point of the Uvula and was swept away by the flow of the Saliva.

DR. JACKSON: "Suppose the lateral recti muscles of the eyeballs were paralyzed and as a result the eyeballs were drawn medially. What is the common name for the symptom resulting?"

McKNIGHTER WETHERBY: "Cross Eye."

DR. JACKSON: "Now, suppose the medial recti muscles were paralyzed, what would the resulting condition be called?"

WETHERBY: "Well, I guess the common name is 'Cock Eye.'"

Things They Say By Which We Know Them

DR. ERDMANN: "—but as Kipling says, that's another story."

DR. SCOTT: "U-uh-uh-g-g-gentlemen."

DR. PETTIBONE: "Before going to the laboratory just one thing more."

DR. JACKSON: "Well, it might be that way—but it isn't."

DR. McCLENDON: "W-e-ll, have yuh d-e-termined the vitamine concen-tra-tion of that?"

DR. LYON: "Where did you put my pipe?"

MISS STRANG: "We do all business over the counter."

DR. LARSON: "This theory was expounded by the barbarians, so of course we don't consider it very seriously."

DR. RIZER: "Now we find that this patient has pain in the abdomen, pain in the abdomen."

DR. DRAKE: "Well, I guess we'll give this patient KI."

DR. JACKSON: Mr. Harmon, will you please tell all you know about the gall bladder?"

MR. HARMON: "We-ll, I don't believe I could give the physiology of the gall bladder, but——"

DR. JACKSON: "The anatomy of it will be enough, then."

Much discussion has been heard among medical students as to whether Dean Lyon or Miss Strang runs the Medical School.

DR. JACKSON: "Describe the medical surface of the right lung, please, Mr. Lagerson."

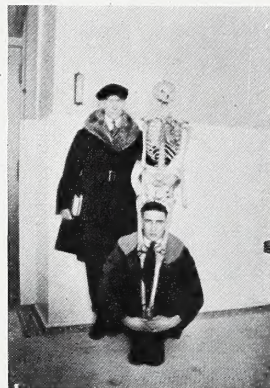

LAGERSON: "You want the right lung?"

JACKSON: "Yes."

LAGERSON: "The medical surface?"

JACKSON: "Yes."

LAGERSON: "Oh, I guess I don't know that."

Dr. Law claims he had the strongest stomach on the transport—that is, he could throw his lunch the farthest. Not so bad for the "Old Man."

Prof. Nachtrieb to class in genetics:

"Why do white sheep eat more grass than black sheep?"

HAROLD CARLSON: "Black sheep absorb more energy from the sunlight and need less food."

PROF. NACHTRIEB: "Some explain it that way, but really there are a great many more of them."

MINES

DEAN W. R. APPLEBY

IT is with great satisfaction that the School of Mines returned to its regular curriculum after the Student Army Training Corps work was completed. Fortunately, no radical changes had been necessary and our men, returning from service, found little or no difficulty in taking up the work of the various years where they had left it. Changing from the semester to the quarter system required some rearrangement of the regular courses, but the changes made were of such minor importance that the work leading to the three degrees remains practically the same as in previous years.

The School of Mines received its proportion of the large increase in the number of students entering the University. As provision was made for only normal sized classes, it was impossible to provide adequate equipment and laboratory facilities for all registered. Owing to the difficulty of getting specially trained men for the instructional staff, the faculty has been called upon to assume unusually heavy burdens. All have responded nobly and have shown a spirit of loyalty to the University that is highly commendable. The students, also, have done their part in making it possible to carry on the work successfully by accepting without complaint days of longer hours and overcrowded laboratories.

It is particularly gratifying to note the wonderful spirit that all the students show in returning to the school. Indifference and unrest are nowhere to be found. Seriousness of purpose, close application and an intense feeling to get the greatest return on their investment of time and money are found in the men to an extent never before realized. To work and work hard; to work intelligently and conscientiously, and above all, to work with a firm determination to succeed, may be attributed to the effect that the war has had on the young men of our country. The School of Mines is, undoubtedly, no exception in its experience with "after the war" students. Faculty as well as students should make every effort to perpetuate this spirit in memory of those who did not return to answer roll call at the University.

NOVEL COURSES

THE opening of the school year was marked by the inauguration of courses in first-aid and in mine rescue given by the staff of the U. S. Bureau of Mines car. In the adoption of these new courses, the Juniors were given first-aid instruction for miners in the afternoon while the mornings were devoted to instruction in mine rescue to the Seniors. The methods of instruction included the giving of first-aid for the various classes of injury that were likely to take place in mines, also methods of resuscitation from electric shocks, from drowning, and from suffocation by poisonous gases or thru deficiency of oxygen.

At the completion of the course of practical instruction, each student received a certificate signed by the director of the Bureau of Mines and the staff of the Mine Rescue car, certifying the fulfillment of the requirements of first-aid or mine rescue.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

THE University of Minnesota has responded to a public need in the provision of permanent courses of instruction in public health nursing, conducted as a phase of graduate work in the School for Nurses. These courses are of four months' and eight months' duration. Outlines of study have been approved by the educational representatives of the American Red Cross. The national organization and the local chapters of the Red Cross in Minneapolis and St. Paul have offered a number of scholarships to selected candidates for this registration.

The danger of the demand for a too speedy output of public health nurses is a recognized one. While the four months' course, planned for the intensive training of immediately needed workers, covers the fundamental principles of public health nursing, the Red Cross and the teaching staff alike advise a continuance of study for the full eight months, an opportunity which the representative schools of the country engaging in this work provide.

The work is under the supervision of Miss Louise M. Powell, superintendent of the School for Nurses. The field study is directed by Mrs. Dorothy Kurtzman. Faculty members in the Medical School, the College of Education, and the Departments of Sociology, Economics, Social Service, etc., are freely aiding this new work; while the relief agencies, the public hospitals, the public schools and several large industrial concerns of the Twin Cities furnish the field laboratories of practical training. Directors and workers in these institutions are giving a warm welcome to the University's students.

ON A BLEAK NOVEMBER DAY

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Among the Nurses

THE Nurses' Student Government Association was initiated on April fifteenth, nineteen-hundred-eighteen. It was organized to fill the need for a more cohesive body to regulate student activities and social affairs, deal with the various problems connected with house regulations, and bear a definite relation to the training school officers and the University as a whole.

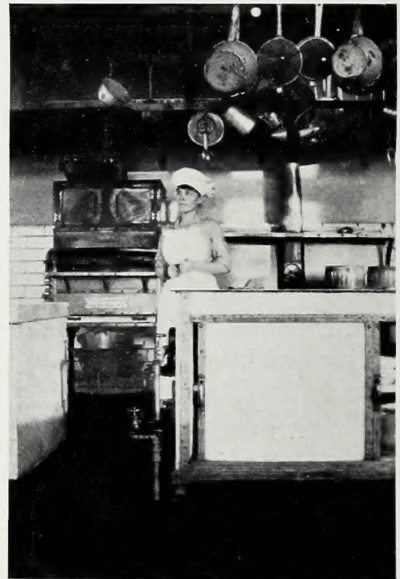

Tho hampered to an even greater degree than are most student bodies, by the difficulty of assembling a quorum for meetings, the N. S. G. A. has made progress. It has, for instance, drawn up house rules and maintains their enforcement with some success, plans and finances the social activities of the nurses; and its officers forming a council, confer with the head of the Training School on matters of mutual interest. As a group it is a co-operating part of the W. S. G. A.

It has still much to accomplish and much to learn. However, with a treasury, a constitution, and ambitions for the future, it is potentially equipped to meet its obligations with success.

ARTS AND NURSING

WITH the opening of the fall quarter a combined course in the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts, and the School for Nurses will be offered. This course will cover a period of five years; the first two years, of three quarters each, in the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts; subjects being chosen with especial reference to the needs of students in nursing. This will be followed by a summer quarter, completing in the Medical School the specific preparation of the student for admission to the School for Nurses. In the ensuing two and one-half years, covering ten quarters, the student will be in residence at the University Hospital and will follow the graded course of training. A final period of two quarters will be devoted to elective work, either as a preparation for educational service or for public health service in nursing.

TWAS the morning of Sunday, and all thru the house,
 Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
 Not a light on the switchboard appeared for connection.
 The lady in charge had notes for correction,
 So she got out her pen and her inkwell so black;
 And soon was absorbed grading notes on the "pack."
 A buzzing, persistent and loud, brought her to:
 The switchboard was calling; now, what did she do?
 She picked up the inkwell instead of the 'phone.
 And the things that she said I'll tell you alone.
 A good ounce of ink she poured in her

PHARMACY

DEAN F. J. WULLING

AS to the College of Pharmacy, I may say that I was appointed by the regents in the spring of 1892 to organize the college. Its first regular course began in the fall of the same year. I found that I constituted the entire pharmaceutical faculty. The college-to-be and I found ourselves not in a pronouncedly hostile atmosphere but certainly not in a friendly one outside of President Northrop's office. When the college opened in the fall of that year it had succeeded against great odds in securing a single room in what is now the storehouse. In the same structure were housed the Departments of Embryology, Histology and Chemistry of the Medical School. The single room which the College of Pharmacy occupied had to serve as a lecture and recitation room, as a laboratory of pharmaceutical chemistry, of operative pharmacy and of pharmacognosy.

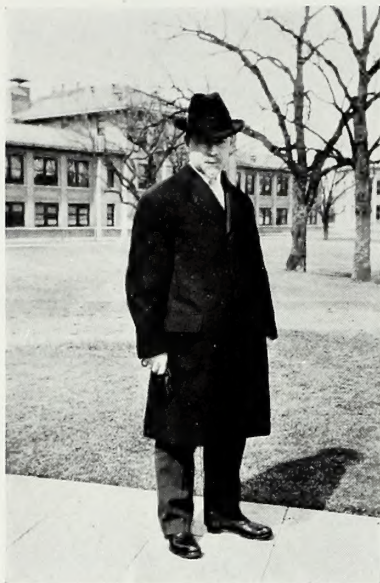

It required some courage to face such conditions, but especially by one whose success had been previously measured by an income three times that of the first year's salary at the University. However, I have never yet looked backward for my inspiration, and I saw great opportunities ahead for real upward and constructive service and so resolutely determined to devote myself to the upbuilding of a College of Pharmacy commensurate with the importance and responsibility of the profession of pharmacy. The hardest kind of work and sacrifice resulted in only the slowest kind of growth during the few following years. Then followed a somewhat more fortunate period, during which some development became possible, only to be followed by about three or four years during which the college was practically at a standstill. About 1910 I asked the regents to enable me to put the college on an adequate basis. The regents then provided a legislative appropriation of seventy-five thousand dollars and about thirty thousand dollars additional from fire insurance proceeds, for a building, a medicinal plant garden and a laboratory; sent me to Europe to study the more important medicinal plant gardens and pharmacy buildings there; approved more adequate entrance requirements, an enlargement of the faculty and higher courses. In 1913 the college was generally recognized as among the foremost American colleges of its kind, especially so far as equipment, building and entrance and graduation requirements were concerned. The building, equipment and faculty were based upon a student body of about sixty, but the enrollment was greater and the problem of housing the increasing enrollment became increasingly difficult, until now the problem is acute and can be met only by greatly enlarged quarters and an augmented faculty, or a limitation of the enrollment.

The development of the college during its first twenty-five years, especially during the last three years, was referred to in an issue of the North Western Druggist in July, 1913, and a portion of the reference may be here reproduced:

"The completion of the pharmacy building, the plant laboratory and the medicinal plant garden with their equipment are the culmination of over twenty years of patient but often aggressive work on the part of the faculty. From twelve students in 1892 with no fixed entrance requirements to nearly one hundred students now, practically all four-year high school graduates; from the meager appropriation of five thousand dollars in 1892 to an appropriation of over one hundred thousand dollars in 1912; from a property value of around two thousand dollars in 1892 to a property value, personal and real, of over one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars exclusive of sites in 1912; from a single instructor in pharmacy and three in other departments to which pharmacy students were sent in 1892, to an active working faculty of twenty-seven, with every member of which every student comes in contact; from no special lecturer in 1892 to fourteen in 1912; from a fairly good curriculum in 1892 to one that is comparable with the best now; from comparatively little research work in 1892 to a good volume of such work now; from an attempted but abandoned medicinal plant garden in 1894 to a real drug garden of several hundred medicinal plants and to a plant house thirty-one by sixty feet in size already in successful use; from a precarious existence within the first few years following organization to a firm, substantial, recognized and unmenaced position now; from the position of an unrecognized, unwelcome outsider in 1892 to a fully recognized and to-be-reckoned-with and respected member of the University, is a record with which the faculty is fairly satisfied. Since it emerged from the pioneer period the college has steadily gained in momentum so that it sees itself now on the way to a much more substantial and accelerating development and achievement within the next decade."

The decade above referred to has nearly passed, but the college has not experienced in the fullest measure the internal and external development which the faculty had hoped for. Some progress, however, has been made since 1911: Associate Professor Rogers was added to the faculty about 1914; the minimum course of the college was extended to three full University years; the entrance requirements were made the same as those of the College of Science, Literature, and the Arts; the enrollment has risen to a total of one hundred fifteen for the current year, greatly over-taxing the present college laboratories and lecture room facilities.

THE PILLROLLERS' BALL

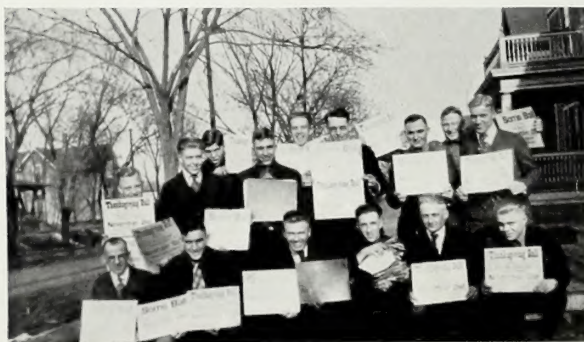

FRIDAY evening, November 21, the College of Pharmacy "Pillrollers" put aside their pestle and mortar and ceased making medicines to present to the university a Thanksgiving Ball.

A drop ceiling of various colored confetti strings hung with balloons gave the armory the cozy atmosphere of a dance hall. The turkey border around the balcony kept everyone mindful of the season of the year. Orange, black and red crepe camouflaged the rifles in their racks so they would not detract from the artistic surroundings.

The dancers got the most enjoyment possible out of the evening, for the Flanders-Gadbois orchestra gave their superior interpretation of the most popular dance hits of the day. The enjoyment of the dancers was general even to the faculty members who left the easy chairs and their dignified positions to trip the light fantastic with the younger and more enthusiastic admirers of the modern "jazz."

Two big live gobblers were given away as prizes, and the lucky winners were on Thanksgiving day again reminded of the "Pillrollers' Ball."

COLONEL A. G. GOODWYN

THE RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

By COLONEL A. G. GOODWYN

THE Reserve Officers' Training Corps is an organization established by the United States Government at certain educational institutions, composed of the students taking courses in military science and tactics.

The prime object of the corps is to provide systematic military training at civil educational institutions for the purpose of qualifying selected students of such institutions, as reserve officers in the military forces of the United States. It is intended to attain this object during the time that students are pursuing their general or professional studies, with the least interference with preparation for their civil careers, by employing methods designed to fit them physically, mentally, and morally for pursuits of peace, as well as for service in war. It is believed that such military training will add greatly in the development of better citizens. It is the aim of institutions maintaining units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps to make available in the future a large number of educated men physically efficient, trained in the fundamentals of military science, and fitted to lead intelligently the units of the armies upon which the safety of the country will depend. The extent to which this is realized will be the measure of the success of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

The establishment of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is expected to enrich the educational resources of schools and colleges by contributing new problems, new applications of science and the arts, and new equipment, thus adding novel and vitalizing elements to the course of study, and giving the student a training which will be as valuable to him in his industrial or professional career, as it would be to his country, should the nation call upon him to act as a leader of its defensive forces. The wide variety of work recognized and accepted by the War Department as of direct value for military purposes, should leave on the mind of the student an indelible impression of the extent to which the modern army is "The Nation in Arms," and the contributions made by commercial industry, agriculture, and the professions to the defense of this country; in order to promote a vigorous type of American manhood, physical training forms an essential part of the scheme of instruction, together with the encouragement of athletic sports.

The policy in accordance with which the Reserve Officers' Training Corps has been recognized, is a matter of vital importance to every citizen interested in the educational system of our country, and in the development of American youth; it aims to give every student enrolled in the corps a thoro physical training, to inculcate in him a respect for lawful authority, to teach him the fundamentals of the military profession, leadership, and the special knowledge required to enable him to serve efficiently in one of the branches of the military establishment in time of emergency.

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps comprises two courses, each of two years' duration; the first, or basic course, covers the freshman and sophomore years in college. During the first year of this course the entire work consists of three hours per week, devoted to habit-forming, drills of precision, together with elementary instructions in the duties of a soldier, and in military methods. The second year of this course continues this same line of work, devoting two hours each week to the subjects begun in the first year, and one hour each week in instruction in the elementary principles peculiar to one special branch of the army. The second, or advanced course, is open to students who have completed the basic course, and who are accepted for the course by the professor of Military Science and Tactics, and by the president of the institution, and covers the junior and senior years in college. During the first year of this course, two hours each week are devoted to advanced work in military subjects common to the entire army, and three hours each week to the work of the special branch elected by the student. The schedule during the second year of this course is the same as to hours—more advanced and more highly specialized studies being undertaken.

Instruction Group - Noncommissioned Officers University of Minnesota

Upon completion of the advanced course each year, a limited number of students from each institution are selected by the professor of Military Science and Tactics and the president of the institution, and their names reported to the War Department. The graduates thus selected will be commissioned as the reserve officers of the United States Army.

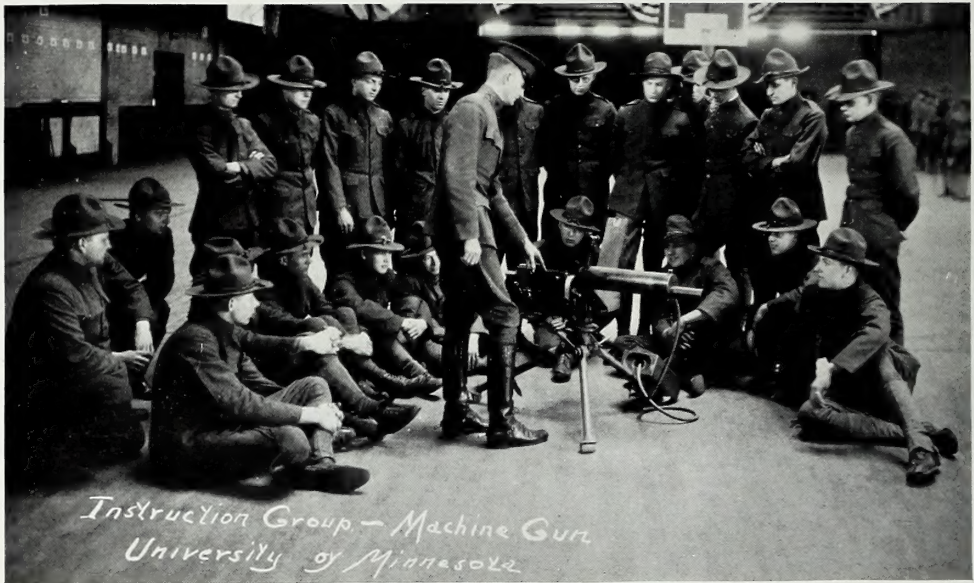

In the Military Department it pays to be fat—extremely fat. Fat Roos and Fat Cohen were promoted to sergeants because they spoiled the alignment of the ranks when the company was given “right dress.”

The R. O. T. C. gives training.
We come to drill three hours a week.
For our work this time is ample,
But most of it we use in stalling.

The R. O. T. C. is a democratic army. When the captain does not know how to give the proper physical exercises the regular army man, in charge of the drill floor, calls in turn on the lieutenant and sergeants until at last some clever corporal leads the exercise correctly.

CAPTAIN WALKER: "Your company is twisted wrong end to. Now give the proper command to get them in the right order."

R. O. T. C. CAPTAIN: "Fall out and fall in in your proper places."

SUMMER CAMPS

BEGINNING with this year, several camps have been opened to University students who wish to have a summer's training in special military fields. Any member of the Minnesota R. O. T. C., even Freshmen, may enter the infantry camp at Camp Custer, Michigan, or the Coast Artillery Camp at Fort Monroe, Virginia, and any electrical engineer who is a member of the R. O. T. C. may enter the Signal Corps Camp at Camp Vail, New Jersey.

THE MAY FETE

ON the twenty-seventh of May the Agricultural Campus staged a remarkable outdoor pageant—The May Fete—in which over ninety girls took part. Aurel Warner, who had been chosen May queen, was crowned with ceremony by President Burton. After the pageant, which lasted thruout the afternoon, the Farm Campus was host to the University at a basket supper, served in the open. Later in the evening, the University Orchestra played in the Farm Gymnasium for an All-University dance. This is the first time for some years that a day so complete, rivaling even that of the Engineers', has been attempted by the Farm Campus.

THE BETTER MINNESOTA MOVEMENT

"A BETTER MINNESOTA!" Could a finer slogan or ideal be found for the student, the alumnus or the faculty member of Minnesota?

With this as our ideal, no matter what successes we achieve in our labors for our University, we will always find new avenues opening to us, new ways thru which our love and loyalty may find opportunities for further progress and accomplishment.

"A Better Minnesota" as an ideal has always been with us. No one can doubt this who has reviewed the history of Minnesota during the past twenty-five years. Associated with every progressive step in the betterment of spirit and conditions will be found the names of loyal and unselfish men and women, now members of the alumni.

"A Better Minnesota" became the slogan last spring when, due to the magnetic leadership of the president, the ideal found expression in the direction of the energies and efforts of everyone to a new era of development of spirit and pride of Minnesota and of Minnesota men and women.

President Burton's words looking toward the development of this ideal thru individual growth may be aptly quoted here:

"Our desire for a 'Better Minnesota Standard' implies no criticism of the standards of the past, but simply recognizes the contribution the past has made to us and our obligation to consider carefully the standard around which we are gathering today. In a sense a standard is the norm by which we measure our attempts and our achievements. I feel perfectly confident that the standard of the University of

AN OLD EYE SORE GOES

FRESHMAN CLEAN UP PARTY

Minnesota is unqualified, unbiased, scientific devotion to that marvelous thing called truth. I take it that the standard of the University should find a genuine counterpart in the lives of the students.

"If I were compelled to tell in an instant what I conceive to be the standard of a true University man or woman I should say self-respect, a genuine concern for your person and your character. Some of the requirements of self-respect are:

- (1) "Utter integrity in speech, in financial matters, in examinations.
- (2) "A sense of mastery, an ability to select and accomplish successfully your work and not let it be your master.
- (3) "A sense of reserve power, a confidence that you can do more than is asked of you.
- (4) "An active opposition to the things to which you are opposed.
- (5) "A clear conscience, which will not shrink from the white light of publicity when it is thrown on your motives.

PRESIDENT BURTON SPEAKS

SENIORS HELP

THE OUT-DOOR CONVOCATION

"With the development of self-respect along these lines will come inevitably the respect of others and just as surely a respect for others on our part.

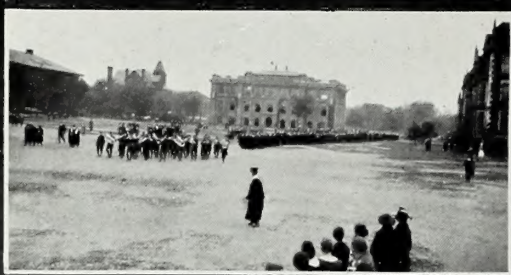

"A 'Better Minnesota Standard' is just this: that devotion to truth, that devotion to reality, that clear, vital, utter integrity which makes it possible for a man or woman to be characterized by self-respect."

Underlying every thought and act looking to the betterment of the University has been the hope that those who were to be here in years to come would find such an atmosphere and such associations that they would carry away with them, in their turn, an even greater love and loyalty for their Alma Mater.

THE SENIOR CIRCUS

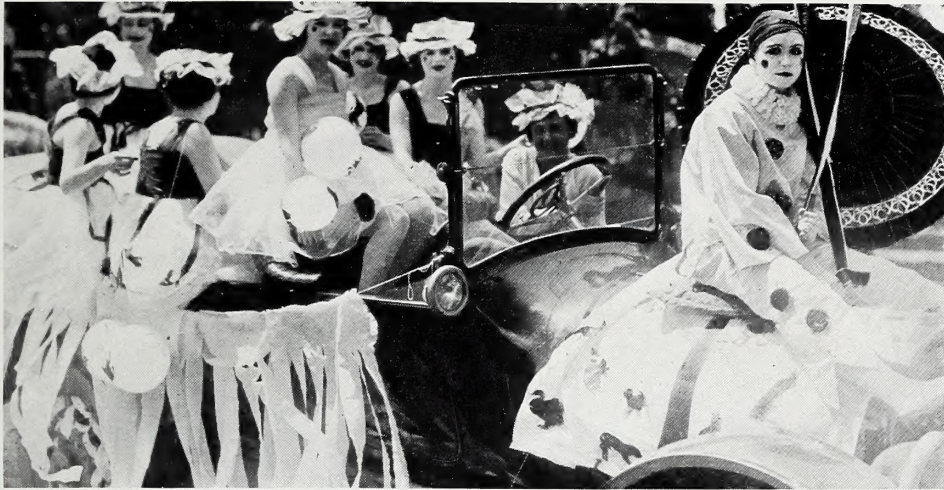

THE Seniors brought back the old University Circus in all its glory. White tops rose all over Northrop Field—the big tent, the side shows, and all the pink lemonade stands. The affair started with a parade down University Avenue at noon, in which there were floats representing each individual show. Prizes offered to the organizations producing the best shows, brought out from seclusion all the campus skill, genius, dexterity, and devilishness. These were displayed in every manner from bareback riders and Hawaiian dancers, to the lowly "Wild man of Borneo." The side show tents—which covered all manner of dancers, savages and freaks—were patronized most extensively.

Gypsy fortune tellers—normally distinguished persons—wandered thru the crowds in search of greenbacks. Countless feats of daring were performed before the astonished eyes of the spectators—strong men publicly flexed their mighty muscles, numerous willowy gymnasts swung indian clubs with utmost dexterity, contortionists tied themselves into knots, and clowns—like the pretty girls—were everywhere.

FROSH-SOPH SPIRIT

IN every college this year much class spirit has been in evidence. It has been shown in many ways: thru athletic contests, thru outright class riots, thru parades, and thru field days. The underclass Engineers, Dents, Chemists, Ags, Pharmacists, and even the Academics started the year with some kind of demonstration that, giving them all occasions of common interest, helped along good fellowship for the rest of the school year immensely.

THE 1919 HOMECOMING

THE slogan, "A Bigger and Better Homecoming," best expresses the 1919 return of Minnesota Alumni for the Illinois game, November 8. To make Homecoming representative of the entire campus the All-University Council, the Upperclassmen's Association, and the W. S. G. A. joined forces. The three organizations realized from the first that previous Homecomings had offered little of interest to the graduates other than the football game itself.

To cover expenses incident to an enlarged program, revenue other than that from the sale of Homecoming buttons was necessary. A magazine program was decided on as the best means not only to overcome the financial difficulties, but also to further the "Better Minnesota Movement." The magazine contained a welcome to the Alumni by President Burton, and a reply by President Charles F. Keyes of the Alumni Association; a brief history of the new campus under the Cass Gilbert plan; a review of Minnesota football by Joe McDermott, and other athletic articles.

Nothing similar had ever been attempted at Minnesota. The sale of five thousand copies of the program is indicative of the hearty support given to Homecoming by the entire student body. Between six and seven thousand Homecoming buttons were sold, whereas in previous years the sale had never reached five thousand. The credit for this remarkable showing is due the twelve girl teams organized by the W. S. G. A.

A huge bonfire on the parade grounds Friday night before the game was the informal opening of Homecoming. At the mass meeting that followed, former grid-iron luminaries and rooter kings addressed the rooters. Thru the courtesy of the University Senate, classes were dismissed the last two periods Saturday morning. The Frosh-Soph scrap on the parade grounds resulted in a victory for the first year men. It was the first successful scrap held on the campus since the historic days of the cane rush. At noon the annual Carling Cup cross country race was run over the five-mile course. And then in the afternoon came the game.

The committee put forth every effort to bring the Alumni back to the campus other than for the game. The Academic Alumni Banquet in part accomplished this, as did the registration of Alumni in the library, and the Alumni Convocation. The organizations in charge believe that the 1919 Homecoming was but a move in the right direction. Only many successful Homecomings with the traditional class reunions and meetings can break the present habit of returning only for the big game. To make possible a larger Homecoming next fall the All-University Council has set aside out of the 1919 profits a special Homecoming fund.

THE CONCERT COURSE

FOR many years the Music Department has had as one of its chief ambitions the desire to bring before the university public each year a selection of the best artists obtainable in the musical world, not only to promote the work in that department but to offer the opportunity to the University as a whole of hearing really good music at possible prices.

This last year has seen the working out of this ambition with great success from every point of view. The course was obtained thru the cooperation of the Faculty Women's Club and the Music Department with the approval of President Burton and the regents. The Faculty Women's Club handled all of the business end, while the Music Department exerted its influence in the obtaining of desired artists.

From the very start the huge support given the course by the university public rendered impossible the sale of seats to outside people. Furthermore, while there is no intention to make money, the course has been on a sound financial basis since the first month making unnecessary the appropriation set aside for it, and even permitting of the addition of a fifth concert to the original course of four, given by the Berkshire String Quartet on February 13.

In February the regents deciding that these courses had come to stay and that they could be more easily handled under the direct control of the University, voted that the concert courses should be taken over entirely by the Music Department of the University, with Mrs. Carlyle Scott as director.

CONVOCATIONS

CHARLES A. EASTMAN

LAST year saw a complete change in the system and method in conducting convocations on the campus. The University curriculum was so arranged that there would be no classes in any college or school at the fourth hour on Thursdays. In this hour all convocations are held and these convocations take precedence over any other meeting on the campus. The practice has been to secure two or three men of note to speak at these convocations in the Armory each month.

In his convocation address here this spring, Dr. Henry Suzzallo stated:

"A man engaged in painting a building is engaged in technology, but when he turns to the studio he becomes an artist. The happiest people in the world are people who do things artistically. You can make teaching easy in two ways: by making it a simple and easy mechanism or to look upon your teaching as a great adventure which means to regard all minds, subjects and experiences as being different from any previously dealt with."

Dr. George Sherwood Eddy at convocation on April 9th in presenting conditions as he found them in the various countries of Europe and Asia said: "Europe is in desperate straits, but the countries of Asia are all in the midst of a great crisis. Japan is at the parting of the ways, facing the second great crisis of her career. Her decision must necessarily affect the course of world events. China, a new republic with one-fourth of the world's population within her borders, is in the midst of a civil war.

India, with eight religions and 247 different languages, is seething and burning with a new patriotic nationalism. Railway strikes, social unrest, and a modern demand for home rule are agitating Egypt. America must assume the mandate of Turkey to stop the horrors in Armenia, and to prevent the final wiping out of a Christian nation, which has suffered 12 centuries of persecution."

The Honorable A. F. Whyte speaking of labor alliances in England said: "The Triple Alliance is composed of the National Union of Railroad Workers, the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, and the Transport Workers' Federation."

A PAGEANT and masque, "The History of Nursing," demonstrating the evolution of trained nursing, was presented by the Senior Class of the School of Nursing at the Women's Gymnasium under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Kurtzman, R. N., a graduate of the school.

From the Epilogue

Hygeia, Goddess of Health, laying the hand of the Spirit of Nursing in that of Science: "Together ye shall go forth to fight the noblest fight man ever waged, and give again to the dwellers of this fair earth the pure clean life that is their birthright—the birthright that their fathers have squandered ye shall return to them—and man and woman shall stand in the light of day—not gods—the gods forbid—but perfect man and perfect woman to give again to the earth a noble race to rule a noble world."

CHARTER DAY

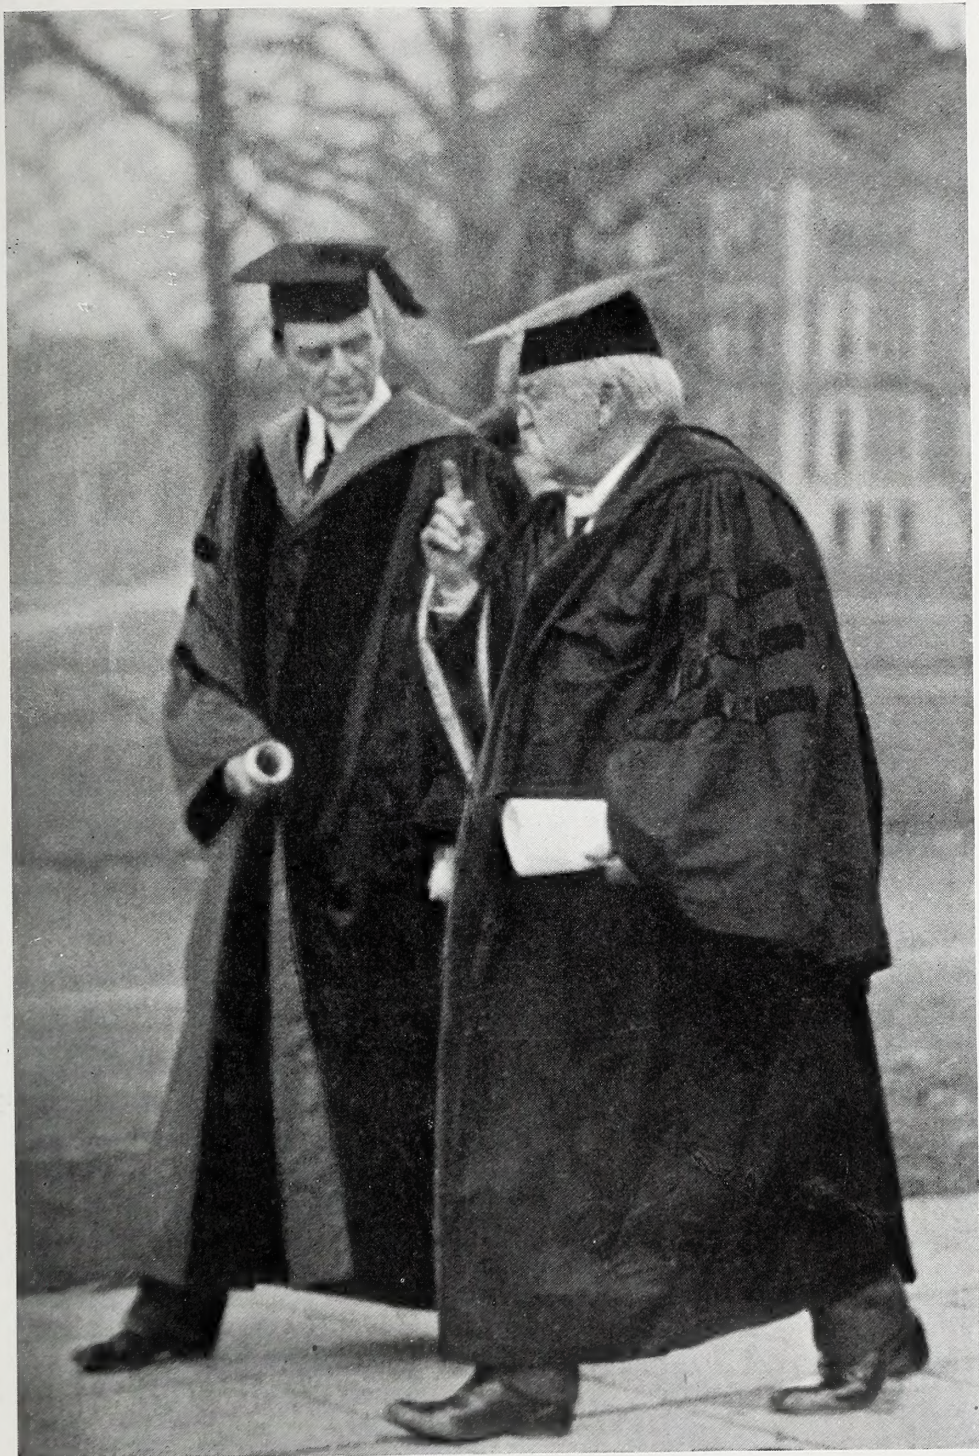

GEORGE E. VINCENT, former President of the University and now President of the Rockefeller Foundation, spoke this year on the University and Public Health at the Charter Day convocation commemorating the founding of the University fifty-two years ago.

Since 1851 the University of Minnesota has existed as a school of higher learning, but it was not until 1868 that the charter now in force was granted and the University as such was organized with William Watts Folwell as President. From that time forth the history of the University has been one of constant expansion and development. In 1881 the present Farm Site was purchased. In 1885, under President Northrop, the College of Engineering was organized as an independent college. Three years later the department of Medicine including the Colleges of Medicine and Surgery and Dentistry was established; the College of Law, the School of Mines, and the School of Agriculture were established. In this year also the first GOPHER was published.

By 1890 the attendance had reached one thousand and two in all the colleges. In 1892 the College of Pharmacy was founded and a two-year teaching course was established. In 1900—the year in which the Pillsbury Statue was unveiled and the Minnesota Daily established—the enrollment had reached three thousand and thirty-six. Presently courses in Forestry and in Home Economics were started. The School of Chemistry was formed the following year.

The Graduate School and the College of Education were established in 1905. Remarkable advances were made for the students' welfare during this period in the erection of Shevlin Hall and the organization of the Minnesota Union.

In the last decade of its existence the University under the leadership of Presidents Vincent and Burton has increased with leaps and bounds until with an attendance of over seven thousand every college is running to its fullest capacity.

LOTUS D. COFFMAN
His Unanimous Election Announced April 15, 1920

OUR NEXT PRESIDENT

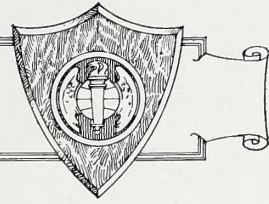

"I AM delighted with the election of Dean Coffman," said President M. L. Burton. "The right man has been elected to head this great university. I have worked intimately with him for three years, and know a great deal about his methods, his point of view, his spirit, and his capacity. He is known in the state and nation. His election will be a great satisfaction to school men generally. By profession and training he is an educator. He knows the problem. He is fully aware of what is being done in all of our best institutions. He has ideas of his own. He is admittedly one of the constructive, educational leaders of the day.

"He is a thoroly sound, progressive American. He has not hesitated to speak out boldly on the issues of the day.

"Speaking both officially and personally, it gives me the greatest satisfaction to know that Dean Coffman is to be the next president of the University of Minnesota. Members of the faculty, alumni, students and citizens may look forward with unqualified confidence to the future growth and progress of this university.

"He has a task worthy of the abilities of any man, and the university has a leader of excellent training and experience, just in the prime of life, who deserves and will receive the hearty cooperation of the entire state.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS' ACTIVITIES

M. CARLO LITEN

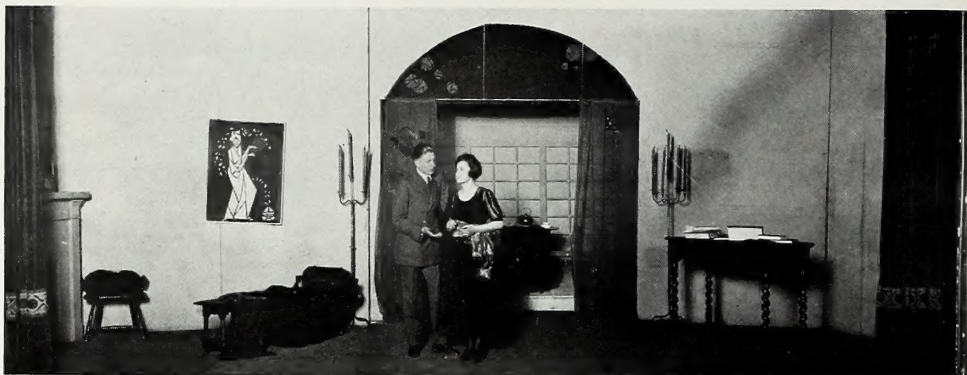

A NEW departure for modern language clubs at this university was the bringing of French dramatic talent from New York. M. Carlo Liten and his company played to a select audience of University and Minneapolis people on January 26th, at the Little Theater, and was enthusiastically applauded in his characteristic roles as French tragedian. The club expects to bring each year to the University someone of outstanding merit, to help foster the increasing demand for cultural influences on the University Campus, outside the class-room. The club could not have put M. Liten before the University audience without the aid of the Alliance Française of Minneapolis, for whose cooperation they are deeply indebted.

"LES BOULINARD"

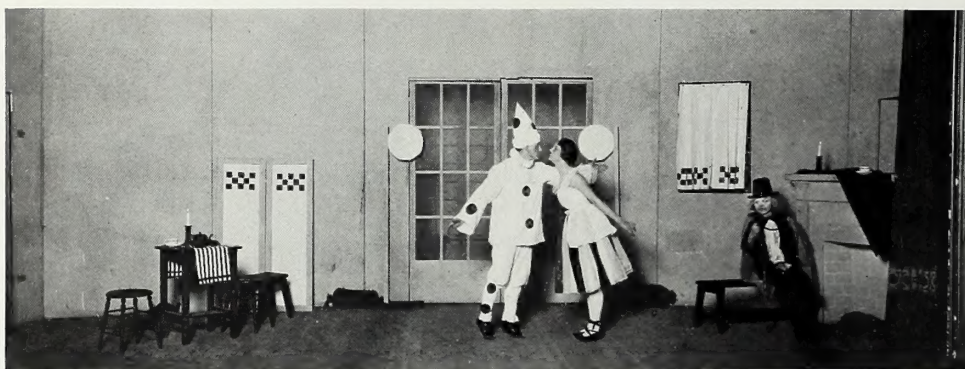

On April 9th, the Cercle gave "Les Boulinard" at the Little Theater, before a large house. Only members of the Cercle took part, and the success of the play was due to a great extent to the efforts of Professor Barton of the French department, who coached the actors. The performance elicited favorable comment from all who witnessed it. The production of a play each year is one of the objects of the Cercle, and has been carried out each year for some time.

THE INFLUENCE OF COLLEGE DRAMATICS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Madame Petrova when interviewed by J. D. Holtzermann and Angus M. Smith, at her recent visit in this city, stressed many important points in regard to the drama and University dramatics, in relation to the thoughts and life of the community.

“THE theater, in the broad sense, affects the thought and life of the community.” Every one in college would be greatly benefited by participation in dramatics. Perhaps the most conspicuous merits of such activity are the development of the proper attributes of speech, and the pleasing qualities of voice. What is, no doubt, of greater importance, is the acquirement of ability to manifest poise upon all occasions. In this respect, the benefits of dramatic training are evidenced in daily life. In this aspect alone, University dramatics will have fulfilled a purpose.

Madame Petrova is very decidedly of the opinion, that all members of the theatrical profession should do all in their power to cultivate an appreciative sense of the refined and beautiful in drama, as well as in other arts. Madame Petrova spoke of her first instruction under the late Sir Herbert Tree, who was one of the few who strove to attain a higher ideal in the art. Following these ideals, Madame Petrova's first appearances on the stage were marred by jeers and hoots. Her attainment of eminence and great appreciation has proved conclusively that the public has come to enjoy and appreciate the pleasing and artistic character of her work. Therefore, actors and actresses should administer to the best of public taste, instead of catering to that which is gross.

“The University Little Theater idea, and the production of the best plays have the possibility, and should be a distinct influence on any campus.” The very fact that University dramatic clubs exist and prosper prove that their productions are contributing to the accomplishments of those taking part in plays, and to the thought and life of the community.

THE 1920 SOPHOMORE VAUDEVILLE

ON April 16 and 17, 1920, the class of 1922 presented at the East High School Auditorium the traditional sophomore vaudeville. This place was chosen in view of the fact that there was no theater on or near the campus with a seating capacity large enough to accommodate those wishing to attend.

The Engineers' act was a miniature minstrel show, staged under the direction of Edward Mikesh. Miss Deloisa Mogler, a student in the Music College, gave an interpretative dance. Three sophomore "Dents" entertained the audience with selections on banjos.

"The Doll Shop," a short skit, was the offering of the students in the College of Agriculture. Merab Tupper, who had charge of this part of the show, took the leading part.

"Hist! Hester!" a musical comedy, written by Walter Stanchfield, was presented by the Sophomore Academics. Louise Robertson was a very eccentric and enjoyable Hester, while Marion Burton and Ray Davidson amused the audience with their lovemaking.

Ray Davidson had general charge of the production; Leslie Irvin, assisted by Bernice Marsolais, was director of the musical comedy; Shattuck Hartwell handled the business end; Lawrence S. Clark was press agent and publicity manager; Terrence Naughton handled the finances; and William Forssell acted as stage manager.

REVIEW OF THE 1919 FOOTBALL SEASON

BY DR. HENRY L. WILLIAMS

INTER-COLLEGIATE Football in 1919 was of particular interest thruout the country from the fact that it was the first season of the regular old-time Varsity game since our entrance into the war.

The return of old players from the front and the admittance of many new ones gave each university a large amount of material from which to make up a football team. The result was that all universities were creditably represented and the quality of play was fully up to pre-war standards.

During the days of the S. A. T. C. little real interest in the gridiron game was manifested by the general public, but with the reaction that came about at the termination of the war and the resumption of business interest and a revival of university life, the general public seemed to find new interest in the game of football, and the great inter-collegiate matches were attended by larger and more enthusiastic crowds than ever before.

The change in the curriculum at Minnesota which was introduced last season for the first time divides the school year into four terms, the fall term beginning on the first of October. This made a later opening than in previous years and was some handicap in securing the full attendance of candidates at the early Varsity practice. A preliminary call was, however, sent out and the nucleus of the team started systematic training on the 15th of September.

The first game of the season was played on Northrop Field with the University of North Dakota on October 4th and was of special interest in that it gave a line on the new material. It appeared at once that the line was strong and the backfield showed very satisfactory possibilities. The teamwork in this game was crude and the play simple, but when the game was over the score was 39 to 0. It was evident that a standard Minnesota team could be expected.

The feature worth special mention in this game was the showing which the Varsity made on one occasion when North Dakota, by a series of forward passes placed the ball on the five-yard line. Minnesota braced for the occasion, threw the opponents back 34 yards in a series of four plays, and held the goal line safe. In this game Ruben and Butler made their appearance in Varsity uniform for the first time and gave a favorable impression. Kennedy, a new man who was being tried out, showed remarkable promise, but unfortunately broke his collar bone, which retired him from active play the remainder of the season. North Dakota made a good showing and gave a praiseworthy demonstration of early season football.

The game with Nebraska on October 11th proved a hard fight for so early in the year. Nebraska had its usual husky material and pointed for an early season victory over Minnesota. Each side succeeded in scoring a touchdown but neither team succeeded in kicking its goal. Nebraska carried the ball once during the first half to the Minnesota one-yard line where she was held for downs.

"DOC"

SPRING PRACTICE

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

A little later in the game, by a series of steady plays, Minnesota carried the ball up the field and scored a touchdown. Then a short time later with another charge up the field we carried the ball almost to the Nebraska goal line, but were unable to produce a score. The first half ended 6 to 0.

In the third period Nebraska forced the fight and once advanced the ball to the 3-yard line, but a fine defensive brace took it away on downs. A little later Nebraska secured the ball and succeeded in carrying it thru the Minnesota team with a brilliant 30-yard run made by Schellenberg, who had been sent to the backfield as a substitute, and scored a touchdown just at the end of the third quarter. The attempted goal was missed and the score tied. Each team fought hard thru the final period to produce a score but without result.

During the last quarter Nebraska was almost continually the aggressor, but the strong Minnesota defense held the game safe. The Minnesota lineup was as follows:

HANKE	Left End	JOHNSEN	Right Tackle
GEROW	Left Tackle	REGNIER	Right End
ROOS	Left Guard	LAMPI (Capt.)	Quarterback
WILLIAMS	Center	HAERTEL	Left Halfback
KLEINSCHMIDT	Right Guard	PHILLIPS	Right Halfback
RUBEN	Fullback

Substitutes: ARNTSON, HAWKINSON, ENKE

The next game was played with Indiana at Indianapolis on October 20th, and resulted in a decisive victory for Minnesota with a score of 20 to 6.

Indiana got away with a great start and after carrying the ball half the length of the field on dashing play, kicked a drop kick from the 30-yard line. After only three more plays had been made Indiana again secured the ball near the Minnesota goal and kicked another stellar drop kick squarely between the posts, making the score 6 to 0 in favor of Indiana. But here the Minnesota offense found itself. Taking the ball on the 30-yard line the team advanced to within five yards of the Indiana goal, where it was lost on a fumble. Indiana kicked to the 30-yard line. On the first play Captain Lampi broke away for a 20-yard run thru the Indiana team and placed the ball on the 10-yard line. Here two rushes in quick succession carried the ball across the line for a touchdown, from which goal was made, placing Minnesota in the lead.

THE FRESHMAN TEAM

In the second quarter Minnesota three times carried the ball to within less than five yards of the Indiana goal, without, however, being able to score.

The Coaches

The early part of the second half was fought on fairly even terms until well into the third quarter, when Minnesota, by steady rushes, advanced from their 40-yard line up the field and across the goal for a touchdown. Ruben failed to kick goal.

In the last quarter Minnesota twice carried the ball to the 10-yard line, once losing it on an incomplete forward pass, and on the other occasion rushed across the line for a touchdown, from which goal was kicked. The final score was Minnesota 20, Indiana 6.

Phillips, playing the left half-back position, put up a splendid game, but during the second half sustained an injury to his knee which later proved so serious that he was unable to get back into the game for the remainder of the season. The lineup was as follows:

HANKE	Left End	TOMASEK	Right End
GEROW	Left Tackle	LAMPI (Capt.)	Quarterback
BUTLER	Left Guard	REGNIER	Right Halfback
WILLIAMS	Center	PHILLIPS	Left Halfback
JOHNSEN	Right Tackle	RUBEN	Fullback

On October 27th Minnesota met Iowa on Northrop Field and lost the game after a hard struggle by the close score of 9 to 6. Minnesota received the kick-off and on the second play of the game fumbled, giving Iowa the ball within striking distance of the goal. Iowa at once made a fierce attack upon the line and carried the ball up to the 1-yard line, where they were held for downs. Minnesota played safe and finally kicked beyond the middle of the field.

Toward the end of the quarter Iowa secured the ball on the 10-yard line as a result of Minnesota's short kick to the side, and by steady attack upon the line rushed the ball across the goal for a touchdown. Minnesota at once came back strong and carried the ball to the 4-yard line, where it was lost on a fumble. Iowa kicked to mid-field and Minnesota again started upon a steady advance which carried the ball 50 yards for a touchdown, tying the score. The third quarter was fought on equal terms, neither team being able to secure any advantage. In the final period Iowa had somewhat the best of it and the greater part of the play took place in Minnesota territory.

Late in the quarter Iowa got possession of the ball inside the 15-yard line on another short kick, and after two attempts at the line without gain, shot the ball with a perfect drop kick between the posts for goal and scored three points. This won the game. Neither side was able to score again and the play was on about even terms. The game was hard and clean thruout. Iowa fought hard and played well, and deserved the victory which was the first one which they ever secured on Northrop Field. The lineup was as follows:

GEROW	Left Tackle	GRUYE	Right End
BUTLER	Left Guard	LAMPI (Capt.)	Quarterback
WILLIAMS	Center	PHILLIPS	Left Halfback

The game between Minnesota and Wisconsin took place at Madison on November 1st, before the largest homecoming crowd of Wisconsin Alumni ever assembled, and resulted in a great victory for Minnesota with a score of 19 to 7. This was particularly satisfactory as before the game Wisconsin considered the battle already won.

All thruout the first quarter the game was hard fought and consisted largely of kicking, neither side being able to gain consistently against the other, altho Minnesota secured three first downs. In the second-quarter Minnesota gradually worked the ball towards the Wisconsin goal until Oss finally carried it across the line for a touchdown. Wisconsin failed to make first down. Soon after the opening of the second half Minnesota received the ball 20 yards from the Wisconsin goal on a fumble. From here with a hard, fast driving attack the ball was carried by short rushes until Ruben finally dove across the line for a touchdown. The rest of the period was a hard fight between the 20-yard lines, neither side being able to secure any further advantage.

In the final quarter Minnesota blocked a kick when Wisconsin attempted to punt from the 10-yard line and recovered the ball 14 yards from the goal. Here a driving attack made steady gains until Oss was given the ball for the final plunge. After this score Wisconsin confined themselves almost exclusively to forward passes, a few of which were executed successfully, one resulting in a brilliantly executed play to Myers, who caught the ball, made his way thru the field for 25 yards and reached the line for a touchdown. Neither side made any further points. In this game for the first time Oss took his place in the Minnesota backfield and accredited himself with dis-tion. Successful teamwork and teamplay was particularly noteworthy and it was this to which the victory may be attributed. The lineup was as follows:

HANKE	Left End	TIERNEY	Right End
GEROW	Left Tackle	LAMPI (Capt.)	Quarterback

On November 8th, Minnesota met Illinois on Northrop Field. This game was one of the most hard fought battles of the season and decided the championship of the Middle West. All thru the first half Minnesota forced the fight and the play was carried on almost exclusively in Illinois territory. Three times during the first quarter Minnesota had the ball within striking distance of the Illinois goal, without being able to score.

In the second period Minnesota continued on the aggressive and again three times had the ball within striking distance but no score was made. Early in the third quarter, receiving the ball on a kickoff on the 30-yard line, Minnesota began a rushing attack which swept all before it and brought the ball to the 2-yard line, where it was lost on a fumble just as it was being carried across the line. Illinois kicked out to midfield, Minnesota returned, Illinois again kicked and Minnesota once more started rushing the attack from the 40-yard line, which this time was to prove successful.

By steady gains the ball was advanced to the 12-yard line where Oss was called upon for an end play. Starting for the side line on a wide sweep he suddenly turned in and carried the ball straight thru the Illinois line for the necessary ground and touchdown. This seemed to be the deciding play and the Minnesota team, we regret to say, settled down to an assured victory. Directly after the kickoff, however, Illinois executed a forward pass resulting in a 25-yard gain and immediately afterward succeeded in completing another forward pass which gained 35 yards and placed the ball only three yards from the Minnesota goal. From here they carried the ball across, after three hard drives at the line and then kicked the goal which placed Illinois in the lead by a score of 7 to 6. Elated by this success, Illinois again carried the ball to the 10-yard line and after failing at further attempts to advance suddenly executed a brilliant play which sent the ball between the posts for a goal from the field. No further scoring was done.

The final count was 10 to 6 in favor of Illinois. The lineup was as follows:

HANKE	Left End	JOHNSEN	Right Tackle
HAWKINSON	Left Tackle	GRUYE	Right End
BUTLER	Left Guard	LAMPI (Capt.)	Quarterback

The final game of the season was played with Michigan at Ann Arbor on the Saturday before Thanksgiving, and is looked back upon by Minnesota men with a feeling of profound satisfaction. Michigan had been out of the conference for eight years. In the old days the rivalry between Michigan and Minnesota had been most keen. The famous 6 to 6 game on Northrop Field in 1904 was one of the historic events of the west. Other hard fought battles between Michigan and Minnesota had always been won by Michigan by a close margin. The previous game played at Ann Arbor in 1912 was a battle royal, neither side scoring until the last few moments of play, when Michigan successfully executed two long forward passes which finally placed the ball within three yards of the Minnesota goal. From here it was carried across the line for a 6 to 0 victory.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL

These many historic battles ending in Michigan's favor clothed the game of 1918 with peculiar interest. The struggle was again staged on Ferry Field. This time the Minnesota men swept Michigan before them like chaff, and secured an overwhelming victory of 34 to 7. Michigan's lone score came from kicking across the Minnesota goal on a kickoff and a Michigan lineman falling on the ball behind the goal, Minnesota not realizing that the ball was not dead after having been kicked across the goal line from the kickoff.

Space does not permit us to describe the game in full detail. Time after time Minnesota marched half the length of the field. Captain Lampi, Ruben, Arntson and Oss all made brilliant attacks. Lampi started the procession with a 40-yard run thru the Michigan team for a touchdown during the first two minutes of play. From that time on the game was never in danger. Michigan secured only one first down during the entire afternoon. The kicking of Sparks, however, was of phenomenal brilliance and on one occasion he punted from behind his own goal line, the ball traveling the length of the field and was secured behind the Minnesota goal line. The play of the game that was executed with most phenomenal brilliance was made by Oss. This young man received the ball on a pass from center, 67 yards from the Michigan goal. Putting the ball under his arm, he started for the left side line at terrific speed and after running around the Michigan line, cut back thru the field and threaded his way up thru the Michigan backfield, avoided all tacklers and finally planted the ball squarely between the goal posts.

The Michigan rooters supported their team loyally by vociferous cheers whenever Oss, Ruben, Arntson or Lampi were stopped for a gain of less than five yards. The long awaited victory had arrived at last.

The best of sportsmanship was displayed upon the field and each team played a clean and gentlemanly game. The historic jug which has remained at Ann Arbor for many years is now back in the Trophy Room at Minnesota. The lineup for this game was as follows:

HANKE	Left End	JOHNSEN	Right Tackle
HAWKINSON	Left Tackle	GRUYE	Right End
BUTLER	Left Guard	LAMPI (Capt.)	Quarterback

THE TEAM

IN the middle of February, 1919, about a score of candidates answered Dr. Williams' call for spring practice. With a nucleus made up of four letter men, the doctor began to build his team for the coming fall. The squad worked hard for three and a half months, and by the end of May it had increased to about thirty men, most of whom had grasped the fundamentals of Minnesota's style of play before the spring grind closed.

Beginning with the first game, Minnesota was unfortunate in losing an exceptional number of men from injuries. Kennedy and Enke were lost for practically the entire season, Haertel, Phillips, Gerow, Kleinschmitt, and Arntson were also out of the running much of the time. In spite of bad luck, however, Minnesota made a creditable showing, decisively defeating North Dakota, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

The fighting spirit so characteristic of Minnesota teams was always evident, especially on foreign fields, where the odds were the greatest. Too much credit cannot be given to Minnesota's veteran coach, Dr. H. L. Williams, because he handled the most trying situations with remarkable coolness, courage, and determination.

ERNEST W. LAMPI, Captain.

"PROSPECTS"

MINNESOTA this year looks out upon a season of glorious football prospects. Nearly all the men who were out last season will be back in uniform again next fall. Besides this, the Freshman Squad of last year, composed of some very promising material, will add wonderfully to Gopher hopes. These positive advantages indicate that Minnesota will send out a team worthy in every way to compete with any team in the Big Ten. I have unlimited faith in the students of Minnesota that they will induce new men in college with football experience to report for practice in the spring and again in the fall. With backing of the student body behind us, Minnesota will be assured of a team which will expend every last ounce of its energy and every possible effort to bring that much prized laurel, the conference championship, back to Gopher territory.

THE TRACK SEASON

By COACH LEONARD FRANK

THE 1919 track season was successful from every angle.

Having no in-door facilities, the team did not attempt an in-door meet. The out-door schedule was made up of two dual meets, Iowa and Nebraska, both of which were won by large scores.

The team won sixth place at the Conference Meet out of a field of eighteen.

The outstanding features of the season were Erling Platou's new record in the discus throw of 130 feet, 10 inches, Arnold Oss defeating McMahon of Nebraska and winning second place in the Conference 440 with a record of $49\frac{3}{5}$ seconds, and the all around good work of Cyril Jensen in the hurdles and jumps. Jensen took third place in the Conference High Hurdles.

Other consistent performers were Holt, elected captain for 1920, who won both dashes in the Iowa meet and finished fourth in the Conference 220 Yard Dash; and Langland, who finished fourth in the Conference Mile and won this event in each of the dual meets. Captain Sam Mara, Wilder, Moon, Ueland, Bierman, Kingsley, Sommers, and McNally also did creditable work.

The cross country team lost its dual meet with Wisconsin, but came back strong and won fourth place in the Conference, defeating Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Ohio, Cincinnati, and Oberlin.

The members of the team were as follows: Captain Robert Wilder, Ken Moon, Ross Lynch, Andy Hoverstad, Bill Bennitt and Putnam.

The 1920 track schedule provides for eight trips. The cross country team will meet Iowa and Wisconsin in the fall. Prospects at this time are encouraging.

CAPTAIN SAM MARA

THE 1918-19 SEASON

THE 1918-19 track season is now history, and the details of our records can be found elsewhere; therefore no need mentioning them. A brief idea of some of the obstacles confronting the team will be more appropriate than a summary of the various meets.

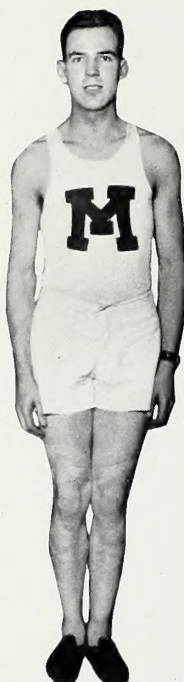

Previous to the Iowa meet, Minnesota experienced some very cold, disagreeable weather. In fact we had about three days of out-door practice. Since facilities for in-door work are not what they should be, the team was not in the best of conditions. Nevertheless, they managed to squeeze out a close victory, in the first out-door meet with Iowa.

Since conditions like those mentioned are to be encountered every spring, it means that the individual track man must get out early for practice and take a great deal upon himself to make the team a success so that when the season is at hand, he will be in better shape to jump right into hard work. The coach must not always be depended on to work out all the small details.

He is there to show the man what to do, and the man must do his share to work out the details and shape himself for his event.

Altho the last year's team did not show up brilliantly at the "Big Ten" meets, the fact still remains that they were working hard all the time. Nearly every man spent from one and one-half to two hours daily on the track. Now if the student body would support and encourage the team as they do the football and basketball teams, and if the Minnesota "grads" would support the teams like certain other "Big Ten" alumni do, I am sure that there would be no more need of the track team, or any other Minnesota team taking a back seat for the best teams in the States, let alone the Conference teams. I leave that plea with the student body as well as the Alumni, to stand back of their Alma Mater athletics.

SAM G. MARA.

THE 1919-1920 SEASON

WEATHER reports and dope stories on sport are notable for their inaccuracies. After noting advance predictions of any nature, many people assume that the actual occurrence in such a case will be the exact opposite of the prophecy, and experience would seem to bear out this cynical attitude toward forecasts in general. Since the law of averages would seem to indicate that forecasts work by opposites, to attempt a dope story on Minnesota's 1920 track season is rather a hazardous proposition. Since, however, custom demands a glance at the season's prospects, it becomes necessary to make at least a conservative estimate of the track situation as it appears prior to the first indoor meets.

We must recognize in advance that eligibility rules always play a large part at Minnesota in the making or breaking of any athletic team. With this as an advance alibi, it seems reasonably safe to predict a successful season on the track. The impetus given all athletics the past year by the return of service men is surety for a stronger team than has represented Minnesota for several seasons. Such fleet tracksters as B. F. Johnson, Frank Kelly, and Dick Fischer again will represent the Maroon and Gold. The Sophomore Class has contributed such promising candidates for honors on the cinder path as Anderson, Clemens, Rodney Kelly, and Hawker. The apparent quality of the new material and the availability of the major portion of last year's team augurs well for Minnesota's 1920 track season.

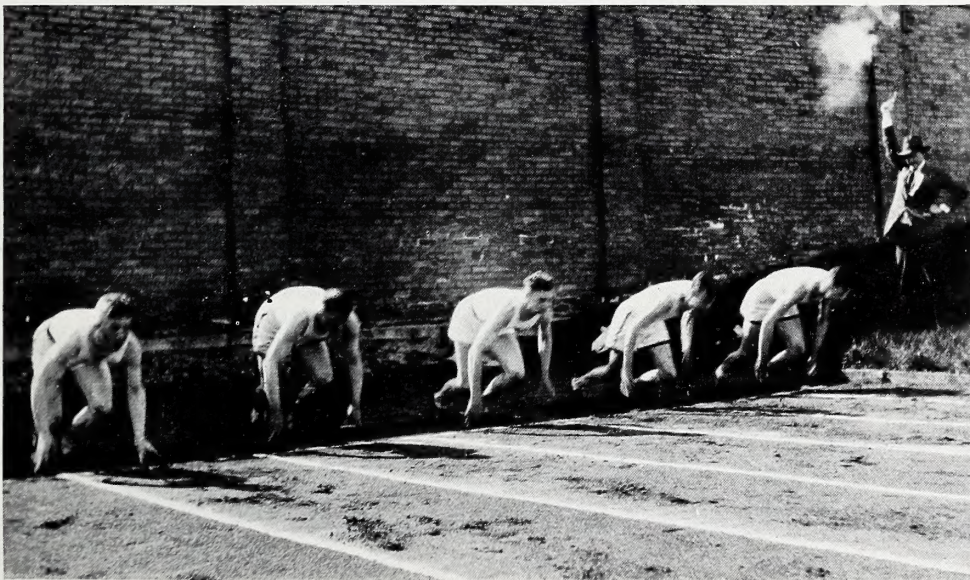

The team will have greater opportunity than usually is offered to show its merit this season, the athletic board having authorized in-door meets with Shattuck and Ames, the sending of selected members of the team to the Illinois Relays and the Indoor Conference. The out-door season will include dual meets with Iowa, Nebraska, and Wisconsin, as well as the Conference Meet.

AT the beginning of the fall quarter three veterans, Wilder, Moon, and Lynch, together with a number of new men came out for cross country. After several weeks of training, a three-mile practice run was held with West High School of Minneapolis, in which Minnesota took the honors.

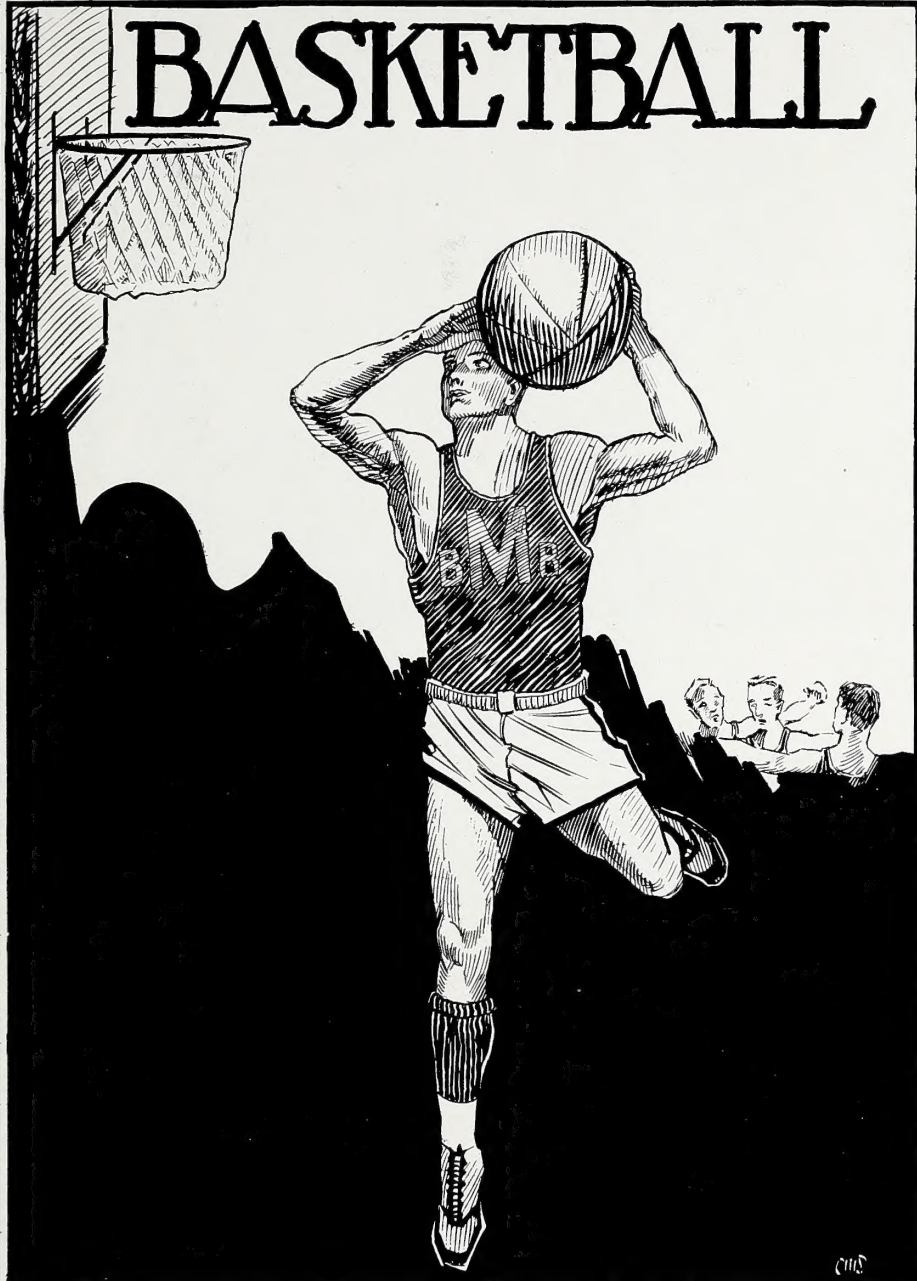

On the first of November a team composed of Wilder, Moon, Benitt, Hoverstad, Hanft, and Armstrong, ran against the Wisconsin team over a five-mile course at Madison. Wisconsin won with a score of 27 to Minnesota's 51. The Minnesota team placed individually as follows: Wilder 4th, Moon 5th, Benitt 9th, Hoverstad 10th, Hanft 11th, and Armstrong 12th.

The Carling Cup Race, in which the members of the team ran under the colors of various sororities for a cup which is presented to the sorority represented by the winner, was revived from 1916 and held on home-coming day, November 8. Wilder finished first in this event and won the cup for the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

On the twenty-first of November, the Conference Cross Country Run was held at Columbus, Ohio. Ten teams composed of six men each ran over a five mile course. Ames won the meet with the lowest score made in the Conference Meet for several years. The scores of the various teams were: Ames 38, Wisconsin 78, Purdue 117, Minnesota 120, Ohio State 136, Michigan 138, Illinois 144, Chicago 146, Oberlin 158, Cincinnati 200. Minnesota's team finished individually as follows: Wilder 8th, Moon 11th, Lynch 24th, Putnam 37th, Hoverstad 41st, Benitt 44th.

Kenneth Moon was elected captain of the team for the season of 1920.

THE past basketball season was unusually disappointing in view of the fact that only the year before Minnesota's team established a record which had only been equaled twice before in the history of the Conference. At the beginning of the season prospects were bright in spite of the loss of Kingsley, Hultkrans, and Captain Platou of the preceding year's 100 % team. Oss, Lawler and Arntson, regulars, and McMillan, Enke, Hammer and Kearney, substitutes, were back and eligible.

In the face of numerous disappointing defeats, the enthusiastic support demonstrated by the students at all times was a source of much encouragement. In the Wisconsin game the team went into the game with only a fighting chance, as Wisconsin had beaten Illinois, and Illinois had in turn beaten Minnesota. However, backed by the cheering, howling Gopher fans, the team decisively defeated its old and bitter rival. This game, to the members of the team, helped make up for the poor showing of the season as a whole.

It is only proper, as captain of the team, that I should thank the student body in behalf of the team for their exceptional and unfailing support in the face of such discouraging odds.

BASKETBALL

Season of 1919-1920

THE University of Minnesota basketball team closed its season in a much less conspicuous manner than the 1918-1919 champions. There are several reasons for this. In the first place the loss of Kingsley, premier center of the Conference, Platou and Hultkrans, guards of last year's team, weakened the prospects of the team both offensively and defensively; secondly, the illness of Oss, Hammer and Lawler during the major portion of the season necessitated shifting the players to new positions; and thirdly, the injury of Enke before the beginning of the Conference season, and the ineligibility of Macdonald, for two-thirds of the season, all contributed to the poor standing in the percentage column.

Four preliminary games were played as follows:

Dec. 10	Minnesota	49	Stout Institute	3
Dec. 13	Minnesota	30	St. Thomas	11
Dec. 17	Minnesota	49	Excelsior	14
Dec. 20	Minnesota	26	River Falls Normal	23

The Conference season opened at home on January 3, with Northwestern as opponent, and the game was won, 19 to 12. Oss, Hammer and Captain Lawler played the best game for Minnesota.

On January 9, Iowa was defeated in a hard fought game, the Hawkeyes leading at the end of the first half, 8 to 5, and they kept in the lead until the last few minutes of the game, when Arntson by three beautiful mid-field goals, in rapid succession, made possible a 21 to 19 victory.

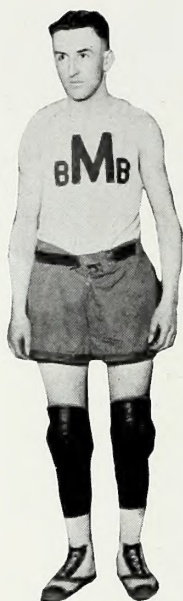

On January 17, Illinois was played at Urbana, Minnesota losing, 31 to 19. Inability to cage free throws contributed to the loss of the game. Oss on offense and Lawler on defense did most creditable work for Minnesota.

In an overtime game at Evanston on January 19, Minnesota lost to Northwestern, 28 to 24, Oss and Arntson starring on offense. Here again poor free throws were a big factor in the loss of the game. Enke, with a broken bone in his right hand, had not played in a conference game up to this time, and as a result of lack of practice was not in condition, and to further handicap the team Oss and Hammer became ill with influenza, and were unable to take the next trip with the team; in fact neither player fully recovered during the remainder of the season.

On January 31, Wisconsin defeated Minnesota at Madison by a score of 28 to 12, Arntson and Lawler doing the best work for Minnesota. Kearney who substituted for Hammer, and McMillan and Goldberg for Oss, all did creditable work.

On February 2, with a patched line-up at Iowa City, the team lost to the University of Iowa, 30 to 5, Arntson, Lawler and Kearney doing the best work for Minnesota.

On February 7, Chicago easily defeated Minnesota at home, 35 to 10. For Minnesota Captain Lawler's defensive playing stood out clearly, the speedy Birkhoff being fortunate in casing one lucky basket on him.

LAWLER
Captain

Michigan was the next opponent at home, and they won in a close contest by a 21 to 20 score. The count at the end of the first half was: Michigan 17, Minnesota 10. Oss returned to the game and was used offensively only. He scored five goals from the field, but lacked his usual drive. A record of only four points out of twelve free throws tells the story of the defeat.

February 23, Illinois, at Minneapolis, defeated Minnesota 26 to 10 in a game full of thrills. Minnesota led at the end of the first period, 9 to 8. Here again poor free throwing was responsible in a large measure for defeat as but four of thirteen free throws were made.

Oss, Arntson and Lawler played the best game for Minnesota, the team on the whole playing one of the best games of the season.

Wisconsin, with a record of four straight victories, including Illinois, Ohio, and Michigan, was defeated at Minneapolis on February 28, 32 to 26. Minnesota, led by a 16 to 4 score at the end of the half, sweeping the Badgers off their feet in this period. Arntson with six field goals, MacDonald with three, and Lawler with two, were the bright luminaries for Minnesota in the best game of the season. Captain Knapp of Wisconsin, who had scored a total of twenty field goals in two previous games, was held to a lone field goal by Captain Lawler.

On March 6, Minnesota, without Oss in the line-up, was disastrously defeated by Chicago, at Chicago, by a score of 58 to 16. Arntson was the only Gopher in the limelight, scoring six field goals. As the score indicates, Minnesota as a team played exceedingly weak on defense.

The closing game of the season resulted in a loss to Michigan at Ann Arbor, on March 8, by a score of 30 to 16; Arntson, Hammer, and Enke doing the best work for Minnesota.

While the team finished low in the percentage column, lower than any team in the history of basketball at Minnesota, the spirit of the squad in the circumstances was excellent, and the splendid support given the team by the student body thruout the season was unprecedented.

SWIMMING

SINCE the year 1905, when Dr. Cooke took the initial plunge into the then new pool at the Armory, swimming has gradually become more and more recognized until today it is in the same class with football and basketball. The possibility of making it a major sport was considered as far back as the days when our first captain, Clifford Ives, took his men to the meet at the Northwestern, in which meet it is said that the program was delayed for a time because of the manner of our men in taking to the water, internally as well as otherwise.

Swimming at the University has increased in popularity until it has become generally recognized as one of the main sports. A review of intercollegiate swimming dates back to 1911, in which year Wisconsin, Chicago, and Northwestern arranged an annual three-cornered tournament which was won by Wisconsin for two consecutive years. During the years to follow, more of the conference teams were entered, until this year there were represented nine of the Big Ten, namely, Northwestern, Chicago, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Purdue, and Minnesota. Tho she is the latest addition to the Conference, Minnesota has possibilities of making a championship team even as early as next year when a number of our Freshmen, who are already Northwestern champions, will be eligible for competition.

The seasons of 1915, 1916, 1917, captained by Bessesen and E. B. Curry, proved successful years for the then unofficial Minnesota teams. These two seasons were completed without a defeat. The team paid its own expenses to go to Faribault and give Shattuck a beating. Other competition included the athletic clubs and Y. M. C. A.'s of the Twin Cities. The war caused a decided slump in swimming, as it did in all other athletics. Nothing of any importance occurred during this period, except a bit of inter-company competition within the R. O. T. C., which was then stationed at the University.

In the fall of 1919, a number of the older men, some of whom were members of former teams, had returned to school. Prospects looked good for a year of interesting work. Prompted by the old desire to make swimming a major sport this year, the work was planned and started immediately. Mr. Chauncey Hyatt, coach of the M. A. C., offered his services without compensation and has served in that capacity thruout the season, always willing and faithful to the nth degree. Both Dan and Al Bessesen increased their efforts of former years and have done much acting as assistants to Mr. Hyatt in whipping the team into shape. The efforts of these men have done much toward the success of the team this year.

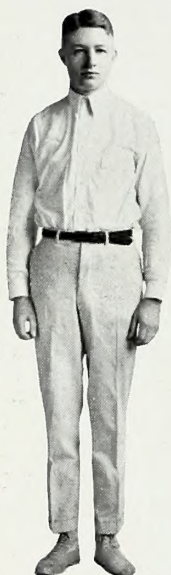

When the news came out that swimming had been recognized as a major sport, joy reigned supreme within swimming circles. A meeting was called and Philip H. Didriksen was elected to captain the team thru the season just planned. Plans for an honorary swimming fraternity are now under way and will soon be an incentive for all good swimmers to come out for a trial. The pleasant surprise came a bit too late to give any dual competition, and as a result of it, Dr. Cooke was able to obtain a meet with Iowa only, whose team we met at Iowa City on March 6th. Minnesota was victorious by a score of 44 to 33. Two meets with the Minneapolis Y. M. C. A. ended with Minnesota on the long end of the score. Other meets with the St. Paul A. C. and M. A. C. ended with but one defeat for Minnesota. In the Northwestern Championships we were able to get second place, which was quite satisfactory considering the crippled team at that time.

The Conference meet held the 18th and 19th of March proved to be a bit too fast for us, which is no more than could be expected considering the conditions. It was our first really big meet, and Minnesota was new and comparatively untrained. Swimming, like any other sport, needs years for championship teams to be developed. But with as bright an outlook as next year presents to us, there is no question but that Minnesota will put forth a team which has possibilities of leading the way to a championship. The race of 1920-1921 bids fair to be spectacular in every detail.

Much can be said of each individual in praise of his work, but special mention must be given "Ben" Curry and Clif. Holmes for their help in making success possible. At a recent meeting and banquet of the team, Clif. Holmes was elected to captain next season's team, and a better man cannot be found to fill this position.

PHILIP H. DIDRIKSEN, Captain.

TENNIS

NORTON

TRYOUTS for the tennis team were started last spring as soon as the courts were in condition. At the outset, Henry Adams, who had the previous spring, in partnership with Widen, won the Conference doubles title, seemed certain of first place, and his excellent playing during tryouts vindicated this belief. To determine the second man, a tournament and several challenge matches were played. Finally Henry Norton, who had been Adams' teammate in high school, was, by virtue of his winning the tournament and all his challenge matches, chosen to complete the team.

The team engaged in many practice matches with Twin City players, but did not compete with any high school team until after it left on its Conference trip, which started May 23.

The first Conference contest was a dual meet with Northwestern at Evanston, May 24. Minnesota scored a 2-1 victory in this meet, winning one singles and the doubles match. The next meet was with Michigan, May 26. This turned out to be the Gophers' only defeat in dual contests. Michigan won one singles and the doubles match. The last dual meet was with Chicago, which resulted in a 2-1 victory for Minnesota. Adams secured revenge for a defeat by Pike during the previous spring; and Norton won over Nath, who had defeated him in a Fort Sheridan tournament the summer before.

The Conference Tennis Tournament, which is the biggest event of every season, opened May 29 and lasted thru May 31. In this tournament Minnesota won an undisputed second place by having a representative in the final round of both the singles and doubles events. In the singles, Adams worked his way up to the semi-final round with little difficulty. There he met his old rival, Pike, of Chicago, whom he downed in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3. The next day, weakened by the strenuous play of the preceding days, he met his defeat in the final round at the hands of Westbrook of Michigan. The battle was harder than the score, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, would indicate. In the doubles, Minnesota met the same fate. After attaining the final round by defeating Nath and Pike, of Chicago, by a score of 6-4, 4-6, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, the Gophers lost their last chance for a championship when Westbrook and Bartz, the Michigan team, defeated them in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4, 7-5.

GOLDIE
Instructor

SINCE the introduction of boxing at Minnesota its devotees have been looking forward to its being made a major sport. Their hopes seem to be closer to realization than ever since the Army has given its encouragement to the sport. Scores of men remaining from the service have manifested their interest by enrolling in the three boxing classes at the University. This accounts for the unusual wealth of talent which the year has brought forth, and it is safe to predict that if Minnesota ever organizes a team for Conference competition, it will be second to none.

Mr. Goldie, who has been in charge of boxing since its introduction at the University, has instituted the Army system of training large groups of men. He has, during the past season, demonstrated that this plan is the most effective method for handling the unusually large classes he has had to instruct.

WRESTLING

WRESTLING at Minnesota was revived during the past year after a respite of two years during the war. During this period there was no coach to encourage or train a team. As a result, this year's team consists almost entirely of new material. In fact, Captain Dvorak and Silberman are the only ones who have previously taken part in intercollegiate wrestling. In spite of their being handicapped by inexperience, the team has made a creditable showing at the meets; and the work of Baily, Stoner, Steidl, Kolda, and Gaalaas, all of whom will be back next year, is very promising.

This year the interest demonstrated by the students in wrestling has been exceptional. Twenty-five or thirty men regularly working out in the wrestling room in the Armory has been a matter of course. With this enthusiasm, and with a relatively experienced squad returning, I look forward with perfect confidence to a successful season next year.

THE SEASON

IN the first match, with Ames, the Gophers ran up against a combination of experienced men. They were defeated before a crowd of twenty-five hundred spectators. Incidentally, wrestling is made a major sport at Ames.

The second match was with Nebraska at Lincoln. This match found the team better prepared and anxious to redeem its initial defeat. But old man Jinx came along in the form of a twelve-hour train delay on account of heavy snows. After a thirty-hour train ride, with no meals during the day, the Gophers wrestled from eleven in the evening until one the next morning, and again experienced a close defeat.

On March twentieth the team met Wisconsin at Madison. The result was six wins and no defeats for Minnesota. Kolda, in three fast bouts, won from his man on decisions. Steidl, in spite of an injured hand, won the light-weight match in three bouts on decisions. Silberman won the welter-weight match with a decisive fall. Bailey won the middle-weight match in two bouts on decisions. Dvorak won from his man in two bouts by a fall.

INTRAMURAL BASEBALL

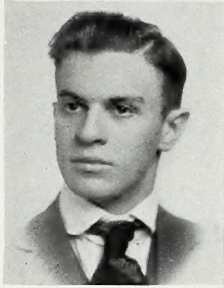

FOR the second time in two years the Law School won the Intramural baseball championship. The Laws, altho generally represented by a strong team on the diamond, were unusually fortunate this year in having a line-up composed almost entirely of ex-college stars.

Schnedler, Rucker, and Eisley composed the battery; Swore (captain), Preus, Paul and Wallace Reyerson were in the infield; and Kahner, Hansen, Peycke, Lande, Mudge, Moses, and Frederickson alternated in the outfield.

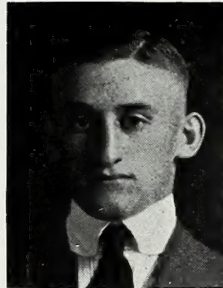

By defeating the Pharmacists, Dents, and Chemists, and tying with the Ags, who had previously lost to the Engineers, the Laws earned the right to compete with the Engineers in the finals. Much interest was shown in this game, and a large crowd of supporters for each team attended. The result was a decisive victory for the Laws, the score being 15 to 5. The pitching of Schnedler, together with the general infield work of the Laws, featured.

INTERFRATERNITY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE Interfraternity Athletic Association was founded at Minnesota in 1907 by representatives of seven Academic fraternities, who desired to promote a better spirit of competition in athletics between the members of the several fraternities on the campus. In 1910 a constitution and by-laws were adopted which regulated in full all interfraternity competition in the several branches of athletics. All academic fraternities on the campus at the time were made members of the Association.

The Association is empowered to formulate the rules and regulations under which participation in interfraternity athletics is carried on. It draws up all schedules, chooses referees, decides disputes, awards cups to winning teams, and in general makes all necessary provisions for participation in various branches of sport. At the present time there are twenty-four fraternities which are members of the Association. The dues collected are used for securing equipment, paying officials, and buying cups.

During the past year, interfraternity athletics has had its greatest season. The interest manifested by the various fraternities resulted in keen rivalry and large attendances at all competitions.

BOWLING

THE Interfraternity Bowling season for the past year was one of the most interesting and successful branches of the Greek sport program. Twenty-four fraternities entered the meet. These were divided into four sections. The winners of these respective sections, and the participants in the semi-finals, were the Kappa Sigs, Delta Taus, Phi Gams, and Alpha Sigs. Close matches and good scores were the rule in the semi-finals. The Delta Taus, last year's champions, defeated the Phi Gams; while the Alpha Sigs won from the Kappa Sigs.

In the final match the Alpha Sigs won the first two games from the Delta Taus. Both teams bowled consistently well; Bros and Peterson starring for the latter, and Smith and Swanson leading the Alpha Sigma Phi team.

HOCKEY

THE Interfraternity Hockey season opened in the middle of January with some twenty teams scheduled to play. These teams were divided into four sections, each team playing every other team in its section. At the end of three weeks' play the Delta Taus, Sigma Chis, Betas, and Dekes emerged as winners of their respective sections. In the semi-finals the Delta Taus defeated the Sigma Chis 1 to 0, while the Dekes downed the Betas 6 to 0. The final game was played in the last of February and brought out the best hockey of the season. The Dekes, by definitely outplaying the Delta Taus during the first half, and holding their opponents even during the second half of the game, won the championship by the score of 4 to 1.

INTERFRATERNITY BASKETBALL

Won by Phi Gamma Delta

IN the Interfraternity Basketball Tournament nearly every academic fraternity was represented by a team. Competition was more general, and perhaps more spirited, than in any other branch of interfraternity athletics. The Phi Gams, Phi Delts, Phi Kaps, and Sigma Phis emerged as winners of their respective divisions, and consequently entered the semi-finals. Here the Phi Delts and Phi Gams defeated the Phi Kaps and Sigma Phis respectively, leaving them to fight it out for the championship.

The final game was as evenly contested as the score of 21 to 20 indicates. The Phi Gams won. For the winners McClintock, Platou, and Tomasek starred. For the losers, the work of Oswald and Scott, who shot six out of eight free-throws, was especially conspicuous. The line-ups were:

BASEBALL

THE opening of the 1919 baseball season found every fraternity on the field. According to baseball "dope", the Betas, Sigma Nus, Alpha Delts, and A. T. O.'s were strongest contenders for honors. The fraternities divided into four groups, the winners of the respective groups meeting in the semi-finals. The A. T. O.'s, Betas, Alpha Delts, and Alpha Sigma Phis were successful in their divisions.

The A. T. O.'s and Alpha Delts played in the finals. Winning the game by a decisive score, the A. T. O.'s won the championship and the cup emblematic of the honor.

INTERFRATERNITY TENNIS

Won by Alpha Sigma Phi

IN the fall tournament, the Psi U's, Phi Delts, Delta Taus, and Alpha Sigs reached the semi-finals. The Delta Taus and Alpha Sigs were finalists, and the Alpha Sigs won the championship by winning three out of five sets in the final match. The score was 6-3, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5. The Delta Taus were represented by Bros and Peterson; the Alpha Sigs by Hauser and Sims.

INTERFRATERNITY RELAY

Won by Phi Kappa Psi

IN the spring indoor relay, the Phi Psis, Alpha Delts, Dekes, Betas, and A. T. O.'s survived the initial round. The Phi Psis and Alpha Delts eliminated the A. T. O.'s and Betas respectively, the Dekes drawing a bye. After defeating the Dekes, the Alpha Delts met the Phi Psis in the finals, and the latter team won handily. The Phi Psis were represented by Paulet, McNally, Oss, and Kelly; the Alpha Delts by Niles, Willson, Ueland, and Bierman.

MAY L. KISSOCK
Acting Head of Physical Education for Women

This year the basketball tournament has been more exciting than ever, class spirit has been much in evidence, and the various groups with their cheer leaders and their own yells and songs have done a great deal towards stimulating a keen interest in athletic as well as class spirit.

To girls who earn twenty-six points from among those offered, the Women's Athletic Association awards the seal, the highest emblem bestowed by it. Election to a class team, hygienic living, skill in apparatus work and sports, swimming, and hiking are among the activities which carry points.

Being opposed to giving awards of intrinsic value, the Women's Athletic Association has chosen the leather seal as its highest award.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

THERE has been an unusually active participation in women's athletics during the past year. The variety of the sports in which the women at Minnesota take part would quite overwhelm the casual observer. Besides the usual indoor baseball, tennis, field hockey, basketball, and swimming, women at Minnesota have become adepts in the arts of snow-shoeing, archery, cricket, fencing and even interpretative dancing in the rhythmic expression classes under Miss Ladd, who presented the masque in the annual Field Day on the River Flats last spring.

Under the supervision of the Women's Athletic Association, tournaments have been staged in baseball, swimming, tennis, field hockey, ice hockey and basketball. Swimming and basketball are probably the most popular sports. Thru the swimming classes and the Aquatic League much has been done to further interest in swimming, diving, and life-saving.

ICE HOCKEY

THIS winter it has been quite the usual thing for the passerby looking in thru the gates of Northrop Field, to see the rink fairly swarming with girls armed with most ferocious-looking sticks and speeding around on skates with little or no regard for life or limb. THE AQUATIC LEAGUE

THE Aquatic League is a section of the Women's Athletic Association which has for its purpose the stimulation of interest in swimming among all women of the University and the fitting of its members to meet the requirements of the World's Life Saving Corps.

Membership is divided into Junior and Senior. Requirements for Junior membership are:

- Quarter-mile free style.
- 20 yards—breast, side, crawl, sculling on back, hands or feet tied, and bobbing.
- 10 yards under water.
- 40 yards back.
- 30 foot plunge.
- Retrieving objects in deep water.
- Floating in several different ways.
- Plain front dive and push off across tank (10 feet).

In order to gain Senior membership a girl must have held active Junior membership for two consecutive quarters; pass the Well's Life Saving Association tests; swim 80 yards in clothing, undressing in deep water and then swim 20 yards without resting; retrieve a 10-pound object from deep water; break three strangle holds, and tow person 10 yards; demonstrate three methods of towing, remove rescued person from water and demonstrate Scheaffer method of resuscitation.

The league has put on a life saving exhibition and a record breaking exhibition for the benefit of a French war orphan.

SNOWSHOEING

ARISING sport at Minnesota is snowshoeing. Never before have so many demands been made on "Jenny" for snowshoes on Saturday afternoon. You have to get your bid in early if you expect to obtain a pair. The long winter with an abundance of snow has added zest to this truly northern sport. Sometimes it is just a short hike around the river road for those who are unused to the broad flat shoes. Again, it is a jaunt to the University Golf Club, with a good feed at the end. And once it was a twelve mile trip, eight miles of which were over a hard, crusty river.

The real joy of snowshoeing is "breaking the trail." Some who are real pioneers plod along making a trail for those behind. It is a great feeling to skim along on the top of snow two and three feet deep. We at Minnesota are glad we don't live in the South where there is no snowshoeing.

President	LEWIS L. LOHMAN
Vice-President	FRANK TUPA
Secretary	KENNETH RILEY
Treasurer	IRWIN LUGER
Social Chairman	 }  HAROLD A. BRITZIUS LEON T. BRANHAM

THE University Post of the American Legion was organized early in the fall of 1919, and has grown until there are now practically eight hundred ex-service men on the campus who are bona-fide members of the Post. From the first, the University Post has been active in the conduct of its business and social meetings. Several "smokers" have been held in the course of the year at which prominent University men have spoken on matters of interest to legion members. In addition, the University Post gave an informal dance at the Plaza Hotel in February, which was thrown open to all ex-service men.

Perhaps the outstanding event sponsored by the post was the memorial service at the University Armory in commemoration of the University men who died in the service of their country.

The University Post has whole-heartedly adopted the Americanization Training Program, and in so doing will take its part in winning over the foreigner to America and American ideals.

The University Post is growing and is destined to become of increasing importance in sustaining and carrying into effect those ideals and ambitions sponsored by the National American Legion which will inevitably result in a better and a broader America.

FORENSIC LEAGUE DEBATES

The question for debate in the League this year was:

Resolved, that the University of Minnesota should adopt a blanket tax including athletics, the Minnesota Daily, the Gopher, Forensics, all-University Council and such other activities as may be added from time to time at the discretion of the Board of Regents.

The preliminaries were held on February 25. The following teams debated:

Forums vs. Websters at Farm Auditorium; Forums won by unanimous decision.

Shakopeans vs. Athenians at Engineering Auditorium; Shakopeans won by 2-1 decision.

Philomatheans vs. Kappa Rhos at Law Auditorium; Philomatheans won by a 2-1 decision.

Semi-final was held on March 5:

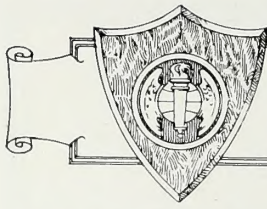

Forums vs. Philomatheans at Farm Auditorium; Forums won by 2-1 decision.

Final was held on March 10:

Forums vs. Shakopeans at Law Auditorium; Forums won by unanimous decision, thereby winning the championship of the Forensic League.

THE Minnesota Farm Review, the all-"Ag" weekly newspaper, is published in the interests of the students, graduates and faculty of the University Department of Agriculture. While issued under the supervision of the Division of Publications of the Department, it is managed and directed by students.

The purpose of the Review is to give the news of the Department and news concerning the University as a whole, from a viewpoint of greatest interest to the Agricultural campus, giving special prominence to agricultural students active in university affairs.

The Review seeks, therefore, to be of the largest possible service and to reflect the life of the public which it serves.

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

includes graduates and former students of the University who have associated themselves for the purpose of making their united and organized good will effective for the good of the University.

As a part of that service the Association publishes

The Minnesota Alumni Weekly.

Since the Association was formed in 1904 there have been five major movements in University life:

Release of the University from the Board of Control Supervisors.
Increased salaries for professors.
The greater campus.
The state-wide campaign.
The Mayo Foundation.

The organized alumni originated and pushed to a successful conclusion three of these movements, and helped to secure more favorable terms in the settlement of the fourth. Upon leaving the University every student is entitled to identify himself with this organization which has for its purpose the betterment of the University.

DELEGATION ACTIVITIES

By D. R. HAUPT, Chairman

THE Eighth Quadrennial Convention of the Student Volunteer Movement met in Des Moines, Iowa, December 31, 1919, to January 4, 1920. Seven thousand students from a thousand institutions of higher education in North America were present. The University of Minnesota sent student and faculty delegates to the total of eighty-eight, to this convention. The purpose of the convention was to appeal to college students, as the future leaders of the world, for aid in "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation." The most able missionaries in the whole world left their respective fields of Christian service in order to attend this unprecedented gathering and to present their best appeals.

The effect of those appeals upon Minnesota's delegates is shown in the following letter, drafted at the first and organization meeting of the group during the week of their return to the University.

"To All of Our Seven Thousand Fellow-Students and to the Members of the Faculty:

"We, the delegates from the University of Minnesota, to the Student Volunteer Convention, at Des Moines, Iowa, 1919-1920, have broadened our attitudes toward life, especially as students at our University of Minnesota. There we thought and moved and lived as students of the mightiest force of the world, as future world citizens. There we were convinced of the power of Jesus Christ in the individual life. Consequently we considered, and many of us are still considering, with prayerful seriousness, the possibilities of His wanting us to carry this message to the ends of the earth, to become His missionaries in whatever professions we are trained. Some of us have already become "Student Volunteers" for this purpose. Others have definitely responded to the call to the Christian professions in this country, whose needs are no less than terrorizing today. All of us hereby declare our individual and collective intentions to make and to keep the principles of Jesus Christ the prime factor in our lives.

"We will co-operate with you in maintaining the living Spirit here upon our campus."

The opening meeting also marked the inauguration of a plan of action on the campus. Committees were appointed to work on: "Vocational Talks" by business men, telling prospective followers how best to apply Christianity in their respective professions; "Mission Study Classes," and, after "Minnesota Week," "Daily Chapel Service."

Groups of members have given reports of the convention in more than forty churches in the Twin Cities, eighty students participating. Three members gave such reports at a meeting in the Armory during the usual convocation hour, February 26, 1920.

That the members are not abnormally "long-faced" is shown by the fact that the bi-weekly Sunday afternoon meetings are interspersed with tobogganing and other social parties well attended.

The delegation does not consider itself any "superior body," but simply an association of friends ambitious for the maintenance of the highest Christian standards attainable on the campus.

THE Lutheran Association was organized February 19 at a banquet in the ball room of the Minnesota Union, which was attended by more than five hundred Lutheran students. The meeting was planned in order to foster a spirit of closer association and friendship between Lutheran students on the campus. Investigation showed that of the thousands of the students at the University, thirty-five per cent adhered to the Lutheran faith.

At the banquet plans were outlined to hold social meetings every month, which have since proven great successes. The constitution of the new organization encourages the friends of Lutheran students by providing associate memberships.

Plans are under way for the erection of a large dormitory and social meeting place for Lutheran students.

THE Student Baptist Union was organized December 13, 1919, for the purpose of fostering a greater friendship among Baptist students and faculty, and especially to help incoming Freshmen each quarter. Several social gatherings are held each quarter and in the spring there is held a big picnic.

The organization is constantly growing with a membership now that numbers over four hundred. Next year the union plans to have representatives at the depots to welcome and help incoming Baptist students, and to see that every Baptist is attending some church while in the University.

THE MASQUERS DRAMATIC CLUB

THE Masquers Dramatic Club was founded at the University of Minnesota, February 26, 1896, for the purpose of promoting and encouraging dramatics in the student body. For many years this club was the only organization of its nature at the University and was known as the University Dramatic Club. During the Masquers' twenty-four years of existence it has been a purely students' organization. More than forty plays have been produced by the Club. The plays were usually given at overtown theatres until the completion of the Little Theatre in 1914, and since that time the productions have been given at that place. The plays have been coached mainly by Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Holt of The Minneapolis School of Music, Oratory, and Dramatic Art. To them a great deal of credit for the success of the Club is due. The following plays have been produced with significant success:

Twelfth Night
As You Like It
The Merchant of Venice
The Good Natured Man	GOLDSMITH
You Never Can Tell	SHAW
Travelers of the World	PINERO
The Pretenders	IBSEN
Arms and the Man	SHAW
Pair of Spectacles	GRUNDY
Watchers	ENZA ZELLER
The Professor's Love Story	BRAWLEY
Penelope	VAUGHN
Kindling
A Woman's Way
Lady Windemere's Fan
Press Cuttings	SHAW
Plots and Playwrights
What Every Woman Knows	BARRIE
A Thousand Years Ago	PERCY MCKAYE

Several graduate members have continued in dramatic work after leaving the University. Miss Leta Nelson, after leaving the University, studied at the Egan School of Dramatic Art at Los Angeles. She is now playing with Wallace Reed in "The Rotters." Clark Marshall took leading parts in "The World Aflame" and in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." Enza Zeller is playing with the Shubert Company. Walter Greaza played with the Shubert Stock Company in St. Paul and Minneapolis, and is now playing vaudeville in Chicago. Emmeritz Norman is playing with the Orpheum.

During this season the Club played "What Every Woman Knows" by J. M. Barrie, and "A Thousand Years Ago" by Percy McKaye, both with marked success. Miss Ariel McNaughton coached these plays, and their success is largely due to her work.

The cast for "What Every Woman Knows" was as follows:

Alick Wylie	GEORGE McDERMOTT
David Wylie	GEORGE HOLLENBECK
James Wylie	HAMILTON CUMMINS
Maggie Wylie	HAZEL HOAG
Comtesse de la Briere	ELIZABETH JONES
Lady Sybil Tenderden	DOROTHEA SIMONS
John Shand	GEORGE LAMB
Charles Venables	FRED SMITH

The cast for "A Thousand Years Ago" was as follows:

Turandot, Princess of Pekin	ELIZABETH JONES
Zelima, Lady in Waiting	HAZEL HOAG
Chang, Attendant	CARL FRIBLEY
Altoum, Emperor of China	GEORGE PERCY HOUGH

THE purpose of the Minnesota Union is to provide a meeting place where men students and men of the faculty may gather and discuss their common problems, and to afford facilities for advancing the best interests of the men of the University wherever possible. The Minnesota Union Building, thru the generous cooperation of the University authorities, has been made attractive, comfortable, and inviting; and with its provisions for recreation it is rapidly becoming an important factor in University life.

All men students of the University are members of the Union and are equally entitled to make use of its facilities. Each member pays seventy cents a quarter towards its support, the fee being payable at the time of registration. The men of the faculty and of the University staff also may become members, with the same rights and privileges, upon payment of the same fee. Student and faculty members are invited to become life members thru the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars. Already a number have given evidence of their support and interest by availing themselves of this privilege. The government of the Union is vested in a Board of Governors, which meets once a week. It is composed of two faculty members, one alumni representative, and twelve student members, the latter elected by the various colleges and schools of the University. Its officers are named by the Board itself from its own membership.

As a well-appointed club and recreational center the Minnesota Union has many features of outstanding interest, chief among them being the rooms devoted to the use of the students and of the various organizations. The main lounging room, which is cosily furnished, is used regularly for entertainments, smokers, and other gatherings. In it may be found a set of cases containing the trophies of the University, and on its walls are hung a splendid group of tinted pictures. The adjoining smoking room and the fireplace and game rooms are popular gathering places, and are usually filled to capacity. Two billiard rooms provide further means of enjoyment and recreation, while they serve at the same time as a source of revenue to be applied to the purchase of additional equipment for the building. On the same floor is the suite of four rooms occupied by the Young Men's Christian Association; in one of these, the reception room, are held the meetings of the literary and other societies. On the second floor are located the ball room and banquet rooms. The former, one of the most attractive of its kind in the city, is used extensively for fraternity, class, and sunlight dances. The newly equipped banquet room is admirably fitted for the serving of moderately sized gatherings; large banquets are served in the ball room; while small groups are accommodated daily in the smaller private dining rooms. The Little Theater, with a seating capacity of four hundred persons, is in constant use for class lectures, class meetings, semi-official lectures, dramatics, concerts, debates, and oratoricals. Probably the most popular feature of the building is the Cafeteria, which has facilities for serving three meals a day, approximating 2,500 meals daily. The cost of the service is low and the quality of the food excellent. The Campus Barber Shop, recently installed, is located conveniently on the main floor.

The Minnesota Union Branch for the men of the Department of Agriculture is located in well-equipped and attractive quarters in the Administration Building on the Agricultural Campus. Its members pay the same fee for the support of their branch and are at the same time entitled to make use of the building on the Minneapolis Campus. The chairman of the Board of Managers of the Agricultural Branch acts as the representative of the Department of Agriculture students on the Board of Governors of the Minnesota Union.

THE GOPHER HOLE

March 22, 1920

My Dear:

The journey which this little book is to describe was very instructive and revealing for us. After an uncouth beginning, we had the best of luck to the end. But we are all travelers over what college professors call the four mountains of university life, all too, travelers with a donkey, and the best that we can hope to find is an honest friend.

Every book is in an intimate sense a slander on the friends of him who writes it. They alone take his meaning—they find private messages, assurances of “love,” and expressions of “gratitude” dropped in every corner. The public is but a generous patron who defrays the postage, tho the letter is directed to all, we have an old and “kindly” custom of addressing it on the outside to but a few of what shall a person be proud, if not of his friends?

And so, my dear, it is with pride that I sign myself,

Affectionately yours,

FEATURE STAFF.

Mamma used to go to college. She told me about it. But oh, it is not anything like she said. Girls smoke. There are atheists and bolsheviks, and college instructors not happily married. There are sedate sociology professors who rave in their classes about the evils of the family, but who say “Yes, dear, I’ll get the meat for supper,” when they are at home. At first I was very frightened, but I have discovered (don’t tell a soul) that they are all sheep in wolves’ clothing. First I visited the Pharmacists (they were the uncouth beginning).

LOVE IN A DRUG STORE

"Oh, Cosmetic," faltered he,
 "Why treat me so cold creamedly?
 Your love I long for more and more,
 And that is what I have Camphor."
 "'Tis sad, Carbolic, but you see,
 Dear Anti-septic won't agree.
 And here she comes with Energine.
 The villain in this drug store scene
 The rivals meet in the Alco-hol."
 One was short, the other tall.
 "See here, Carbolic, I love this dame!"
 "Well, Soda I—I know your game!
 You little shrimp, 'tis you I'll master
 For I'm Cosmetic's stickin' plaster."
 At this moment, Energine
 Threw a bomb at Acid's bean,
Cosmetic's chloroform did away,
 As the air grew green and then grew gray.
 She screamed and then screamed louder
 As he went up in talcum powder.
 "Oh, Energine!!! What did you do?
 I do not love ether of you."
 Thus this pathootic tragedy
 Was told by the drug store clerk to me.

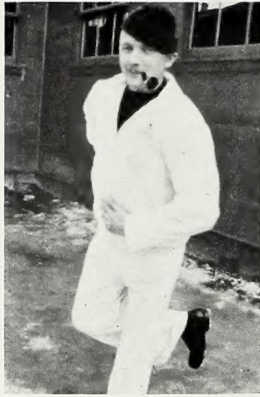

The Pharmacists Got Personal Once

"Enough of this foolishness," shouted Dr. Newcomb, drying his eyes with his bandanna. "We shall now discuss some of the lower forms of life, beginning with Mr. Peterson." "Are you trying to make a fool out of me?" mildly inquired Peterson. "No," said the now humorous professor, "I never interfere with nature."

Nevertheless Pete gave a brilliant lecture, his theme being that tropic animals and plants are so large because they expand with the heat.

While in the city going to school, Miss Segal thought it would be a good plan to visit the St. Paul stock yards. She says the sight which was most impressive was the putting of tights on sausages. The following morning we were afraid she had caught cold but she hadn't—her voice sounded strained only while talking thru her veil. We are inclined to disbelieve her sausage story as she is a habitual thrower of soft soap.

Speaking of soap, the janitor surely keeps all laboratories well supplied. Soft soap is always in evidence, (see above paragraph), a can of Dutch Cleanser is there to impress visitors, and regular soap is what we use. (We use it hard, too.)

After we left the pill boys of the western world, Mary Ellen (my own sweet mule) had a severe attack of rheumatism. Mamma told me that if she ever had rheumatism, to have her teeth looked at. So I took her to see the Dents. The sweet little thing didn't make any kick. Now she has braces on her teeth and all the modern inconveniences.

The Company's Toothbrush

HE LEFT 'EM HOME

After we left the Dent's, we came to the College of Education. I've heard what goes on there to innocent girls, so I just said, "Hurry, hurry, Mary Ellen," and we got away without damage.

Then Mary Ellen went to court. I wanted to know if it was really true what Mamma told me about the causes of divorce. And oh, my dear, Mr. Beach was there! Yes, really. And Doctor Anna too. And Mr. Barnard. And Mr. Stoll was up for slander and libel. In fact, the whole faculty was waiting in line.

HEARD IN COURT

GATES TIMMERMAN—(in his final argument to the jury): Gentlemen of the jury; in the language of the layman and in familiar terms, the plaintiff should be awarded the verdict for reasons more obvious than a debutante's shoulders and simpler than last summer's bathing suit."

It is reported that the supreme court upheld the district court and Judge Dow in limiting the number of special interrogatories which Segal, Minske, and Yeager directed to the jury. They did so on the ground that this matter lies within the discretion of the court, and to hold otherwise in this case would be against public policy and the efficiency of the court.

After an unwarranted decision for the plaintiff on a case in real property, by the Honorable Claire Weikert, the defendant's attorney arose and said:

"If your honor please, far be it from me to impugn in the slightest degree the wisdom and propriety of your honor's decision. I merely design to read a few lines from the volume I hold in my hand that your honor might observe how profoundly ignorant Sir William Blackstone was upon this subject."

CHARLES WANGENSTEEN (opening a case—gazing around on the court—then on the bar—then on the jury—then on the crowd—addressing each respectively as he turned): "May it please your honor—Gentlemen of the bar—Gentlemen of the jury—Audience. Before proceeding with the evidence I would like to state that I am a member of the Methodist Episcopal, a member of Alpha Sigma Phi, and that I take great pleasure in being allowed— —"

STRICKLAND, (attorney for plaintiff, addressing attorney for defendant in a hoarse whisper): "I'll shoot you a game to see whether my complaint stands as it is or whether you demur to it." And a little later, "I'll bet you a fiver that you can't get any evidence favorable to your case from my next witness."

RILEY: "I move to strike out all these counts as multifarious and incongruous and heterogeneous. I move to quash the whole court on the ground that the board of police was bound by law to furnish the building for holding the court, and there is no proof that the building in which the court is setting is so furnished."

FISCAL YEAR OF 1919-20—COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

NOTE: This table of statistics is guaranteed to be absolutely accurate. It is given for the enlightenment of the Academic College, that they may realize the vast scope of an engineer's education as applied to Minnesota. Engineering has been accused of being a self-centered line of education—oh! but read the following:

- 1173—Enrolled in college
- 1173—Know each other
- 1171—Can describe a burlesque show (2 are too fat to get in)
- 1003—Bewail amendment No. 18
- 813—Have a season pass to the Hippodrome
- 10—Are chop-house lizards
- 2—Part their hair in the middle
- 28—Never shimmied
- 1—Does not smoke
- 11—Once had their pants pressed
- 1—Owns a dress suit
- 6—Would rather step out co-eds
- 2—Have attended a sorority dance
- 10—Subscribe to the Daily
- 3—Get the Daily
- 17—"Take" the Daily

Engineering Handbook of Professorial Psychology

NOTE—A compendium of useful information published for those who are yet innocent, by those who have “endured.” A book prepared for the guidance of those who may come after us to take up the profession of engineering. It will be of invaluable aid to the Freshman, and even the Senior may find within its contents a valuable suggestion as to how to manage his professor.—“Plane, convex, and concave.” Can you find it?

In the order of their—— —?

PROF. BILLIE BROOKE, Math. Never keeps a roll. Says he don’t give a damn whether we are in class or not—the exams will tell the story. Acts very “hard boiled” in class, and has a weakness for mimeographed courses in mechanics as well as a Stutz. Would cut the Engineering College down to about 10.

PROF. DALAKER, H. H., Calculus (at its vilest). Known as being a smooth man. Gives examinations with a “hook” in them. Has a tendency for telling jokes. Also has a weakness for giving his math classes a course in history relating to the gents who invented the various “half-nelsons” of calculus. The history course is free.

PROF. VIETS, Engineering Rhetoric. A “regular guy.” He once got our class (1921) so inflamed and sore at the Sophomores that we (then Freshmen) Actually Started a Fight Against the Sophomores. This was bad form on our part, but we got away with it—almost.

PROF. ZELNER (not Zeleni), Surveying. Brought the green caps to the Minnesota campus. A good scout but one on which it was bad form to try to get away with something, because he is always just about three jumps ahead of you. The head of successful intra-mural athletics. The life of C. E. summer camp.

PROF. RICHARDS, Pattern Making. Has charge of the pattern shop, but dresses like a head waiter (never saw him with a pair of overalls on). Since one never has him for a subject much longer than one month, he is not to be considered seriously.

PROF. ZELENi (not Zelner), Physics. Is absolutely crazy on the subject of smoking and shimmy shaking. It is worth a flunk to let him see you with a cigarette. Gives innocent lectures on dancing. A flower fiend. Conscientious as hell!

Saturday Night

As It Should Be Is

Sunday Night
Which is It?

PROF. FRENCH, Mechanical Drawing. Has a good supply of "old woman" ideas. Needs to be humored. Never get ahead of the class when drawing, as this makes him peeved, and you will always be the "goat." Goes around bareheaded asking nature's help for a shiny pate.

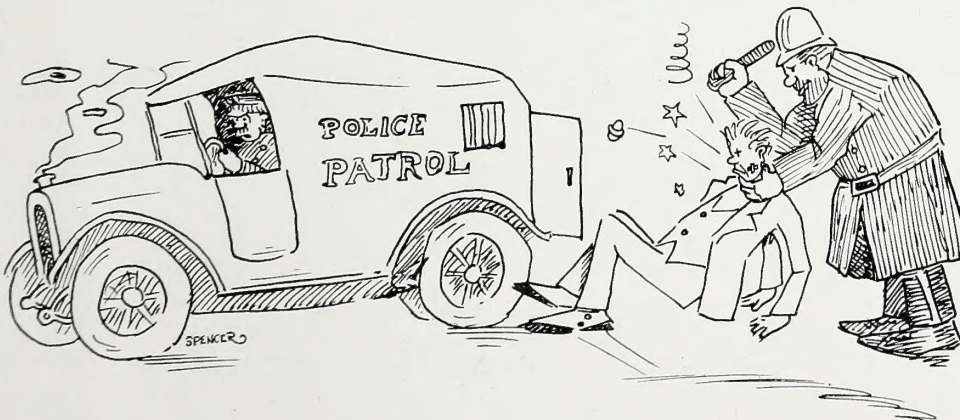

DEAN JONES ("Phantom Dean"). It has been reported that since Dean Allen left us, that we now have Jones of the Chemistry College for dean. Maybe it is true, but those who have been at school all this year so far have never seen him. Must be a very busy man. Reported that he combs his hair with a towel. N. B.—Since this publication Dean Jones made his debut before the engineers—a two-handed man.

PROF. KIRCHNER, Descriptive Geometry. He knows his subject to perfection. No one else knows anything about the subject after taking it for a year. In this class cultivate an expression of intelligence even tho your mind be a blank. However, we ought to run his picture. He is one of the best sports in college—smokes Velvet.

"PROF." QUIGLEY, teaches forge. Chews anything from "Battle Axe" to gunpowder. "The Frosh" like him because he's hard. The only man who can tell a gang of engineers: "You fellows haven't got no sense."

DOC NEWKIRK, Math. Says he teaches because he "likes it," and we believe him. Works you to death. Impartial as a gum machine.

Oooh! Look a' th' Naughty Engineer!

My Mamma's a Christian Scientist, so I didn't tell her we went to the Medic College. But Mary Ellen is a Baptist and she needed an aspirin, so we stopped off.

MEALTIME WITH A MEDIC

The Medic is a gruesome beast,
He's known far and wide,
He brings an atmosphere of books
And rank formaldehyde.

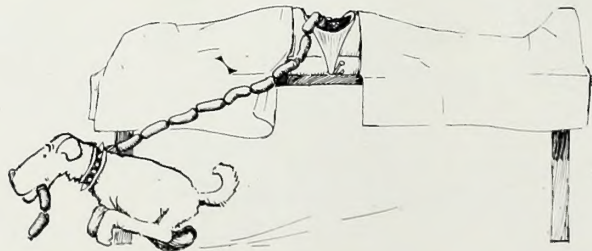

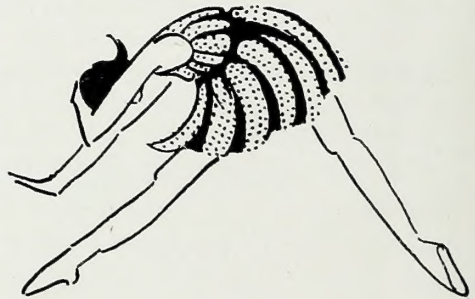

He sits with us at mealtime
And spoils our appetites
With loathsome jests and stiff-room jokes
And kindred kinds of frights.

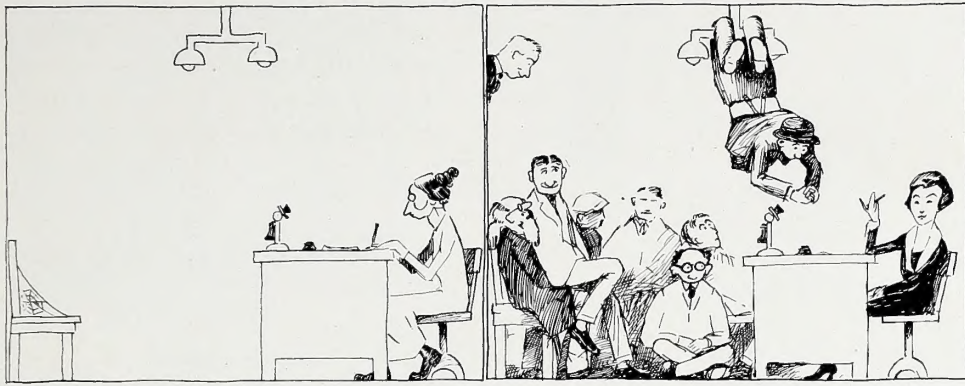

And while we squirm and gasp for air
And feel about to die,
He calmly smiles with fiendish glee
And eats our apple pie.

REWARD

Of our undying gratitude to the party or parties submitting, with proofs other than rumor, the correct answer to the following, which has been a menace to speculation for the past year:

"If Wm. 'Bill' Rumpf, Lieut. Ex-Officio of the late A. E. F., enters surgery, will Dorothy Rossholt the instruments?"

LIFE'S LITTLE IRONIES

J. Samuel Pilkington Chester McFee
Was a wonderfully studious and keen old M. D.
He knew all the tricks, both present and past,
And could snip an appendix before you were gassed.

While Ferdinand Chelsea McGregor de Spunk
Was a boob as a doctor and always was drunk.
His technique was poor and in diagnosis
He often thought toothache was tuberculosis.

Now Pilkington Chester has a gray-haired stenog,
Whose features are closely akin to a frog.
When patients come and encounter her stare,
They do about-face and seek pills elsewhere.

But Chelsea McGregor has an office attendant,
Who sits at her desk and looks quite resplendent,
He pays her big money to dish up sweet smiles,
And he has patients coming from ten thousand miles.

Putting two and one together is rarely considered a true mathematical equation. It is entirely logical, however, to obtain a working hypothesis from the following:

Advent of one Miss Thorderson.

Feverish activity on the part of V. Hauser and Walt Rumpf.

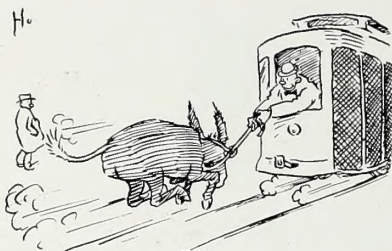

Drop in grades for both gents mentioned.

Conclusion: ?????

Her affections have been transferred to Louis Hauser.

And they used to be such good pals, too. But it was ever thus since the good old days of Adam and his blame-worthy spouse. May the best man win.

I had to be firm with Mary Ellen to get her to go to the farm school. She hasn't bucolic tastes. But those boys and girls wanted so badly to see her. I imagine those rails were hard on her feet. She lost her oxfords on the way. They were dented in the toes. Now I suppose I'll have to get her more.

Life at the Home Management House

I

"Hello, Kate! There's a dance tonight

At the Armory, so I'm told,
Just slip into your dainty silk
And risk with me the cold."

II

"I'm sorry, Fred, to my despair,
With rage within me seething,
I must refuse your kind request,
For the babies took to teething."

III

"Tis a shame, but stay not up too late

Tonight with any baby,
And to the sunlight we can go
Next Saturday—eh, may be?"

IV

The day arrived, and so did Fred
And Kate with the Baby stood,
"My Gawd," he burst forth frantically.

"What's this," cried Fred in frenzied voice,

As he gazed on his fair Kate,
"Just open up the gate."

V

As sunlight faded into dusk,
And baby from the checkroom got,
She carried the baby home on the car

And no one knew that they were not.

Directions for a trip to the Phi U. House

Get map, compass, axe, shovel;
Walk to the end of the city limits,
Take out compass, get direction,
Cut path with axe,
Climb hill, watch for wild animals;
Again sight compass;
In case of snow, use shovel;
Leave tools on porch if you are lucky enough to find it.
You are now qualified for the road crew.

On the Academic Campus, the first things we saw were some naughty Betas. Mary Ellen is so high-strung that she can't stand such a nervous strain. I tried to urge her to come away, but she simply had to feed on the campus scandal. I left her there and went home to supper with Mamma.

Suppose this Were a Bolshevik University

SPEAKING OF REDS

BY VAL SHERMAN

The scene is a fraternity house and the time is noon, just before lunch. At the piano the harmony anarchists are howling "My Bolsheviki Sweetheart," and around the hearth some shameless scoundrels are laughing at the humor in the Congressional Record.

BOB (entering and throwing his books at the umbrella rack): "Well—I flunked my quiz in Porch Climbing."

JAHN (looking up from his book and spilling his pipe in his whiskers): "Huh! That's nothing. They sprang a quiz on us this morning in Home Brewing. I knew my laboratory work, but I hadn't read my collateral. I've been trying to get 'the Bartender's Friend' for a week."

IVAN: "Ought to be a rule, it seems to me, against giving quizzes on Wednesdays. We had one in History of Looting, too. (A Freshman sidles up.) Well, czar, what d'y'want?"

FRESHMAN: "I wonder if you'll help me a little in my Klep?"

IVAN: "Help you in Klep? Can't you pick up anything by yourself? You'll be up before the board next. How many slips did you get?"

FRESHMAN: "Just two."

IVAN: "Not enough."

JAHN: "What were they in?"

FRESHMAN: "Safe-Cracking and Silver-Ware Collecting."

IVAN: "Bah! — You've been shaving too?"

FRESHMAN: (turning pale): "Y-yes, s-sir."

IVAN: "You're going to be soaked for that—get the tub ready."

BOB: "And after that you're to pick a quart of dandelions from the Theta front yard."

IVAN: "How about chow? I've got to get my uniform on for Bomb Throwing at 1:30."

At this point the noise from the music room reaches a formidable quantity:

"Come, be my little Bolsheviki sweetheart,

I'll be your true and lovin' Red;

We'll have a little Bolsheviki wedding

Far, far away in Petrograd;

You'll be the mammy and I'll be the dad.

Come be—"

IVAN (above the clamor): "I say you're wrong. You have to have a year of Wood Alcohol before they'll let you take up Home Poisoning or first year Murder."

JAHN: "And I say I'm right. The only prerequisite for any of the Homicide courses is a semester of Arson."

IVAN: "Bah! Bah! What do you know about it? You'd better go back to your freshman year and learn how to cut in at dances and to cheat street car conductors. You couldn't write a theme on Poisoning Your Grandmother."

JAHN: "And you couldn't cheat a co-ed out of a powder puff—you, you—policeman."

IVAN: "Ethical simp! Republican!"

The lunch bell interrupts the argument. In the rush for chow six whiskers are totally ruined.

Alpha Nu of Chi Psi

1515 University Avenue S. E.

Minneapolis, Minn.

December 1, 1919.

DEAR BROTHER:

There is so much of interest concerning the activities and condition of the Alpha and the doings at the Lodge this year that we will have to reserve most of the details for personal narration the next time you drop in on us. Incidentally, we hope that "next time" will be the evening of Saturday the thirteenth of December at the dinner and smoker for the Executive Council and the Alumni at the Minneapolis Club, or the Christmas Party the evening of December twenty-third, or both.

So, before we close, we would like to say that we have recovered our spirits at the Open House at the Lodge, at which nearly a hundred of the old familiar faces were present.

Relations with Psi Upsilon, which had been somewhat strained during the year, were cleared up on the field of battle November 23rd, when our football teams fought a clean and hard game ending in a nothing-to-nothing tie, with numerous casualties and no hard feelings on either side. The two teams had dinner together at the Lodge on the 26th, and enjoyed the humor of blacked eyes and similar decorations.

The Alpha feels that the Alumni can help us most materially by the very judicious dissemination of what might be called Chi Psi propaganda (though the word "propaganda," of course, doesn't express the refinement), the idea being that desirable men contemplating coming to this University or some other college in which we have a chapter shall have heard of our existence before arriving; and by keeping us fully informed concerning desirable men who may come here to school at some future date and giving us all the available information concerning them family, personal characteristics and so on, to the end that our selections may be deliberate and based on careful investigation rather than on the necessarily hurried and snap judgments of a short and intense rushing season. If you have any men in mind, regardless of their age, we would appreciate your acting on this suggestion and writing us about them.

So, we wish to remind you — — —

Justin Edwards, John Forrest Yetter, James A. Slocum, and Donald C. Barnard.

The Alpha holds the following College honors: Note Editor, Minnesota Law Review; Vice President, Board of Governors, Minnesota Union; President Y. M. C. A., one member, Advertising Staff, Minnesota Daily, one member, Academic Student Council; one member, Phi Delta Phi; one member Phi Beta Kappa; two members, Sigma Delta Chi; two members, Scabbard and Blade; four members, Players Club, one member, Kawa Klub; one member, Tavern Club; one member, Wing and Bow; one member, Iron Wedge; two members, White Dragon.

AT CHILD'S

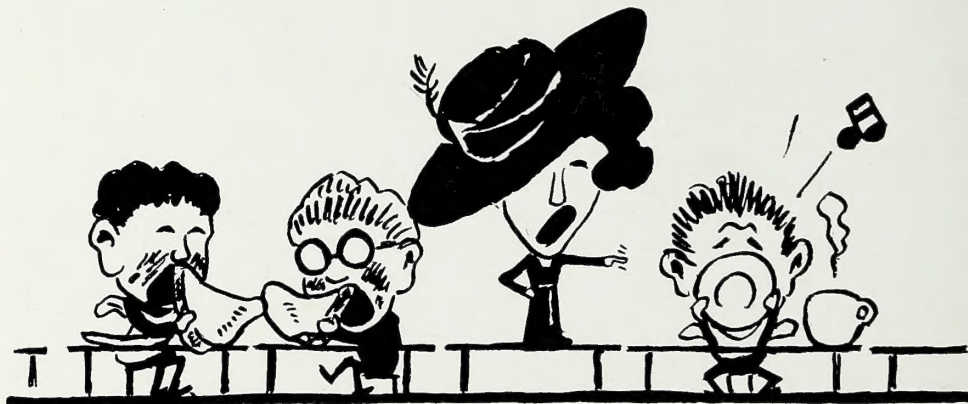

At 4th and Nicollet (for the benefit of the uninitiated—both of them).

11:30—Rather early. But enter Betty Forssell in time to get things ready. Carries big placards, which she sets up on the tables. "Dear Dancer, We do not shimmy at Minnesota." Of course no one will shimmy at Child's, but then it is well to be prepared.

Song: "Let's dance in grandma's way."

Miss Forssell and chorus of engineers.

12:00—Things begin to happen. Enter Dr. Anna accompanied by a man, no, Arthur Bouvier. Waiter yells, "two waffles." Dr. Anna hands Arthur her handbag and climbs up on table. Frantic applause from Arthur. "Academic freedom," she begins. Waffles appear on table. Arthur rescues plate from under the feet of the oratoress and attacks his waffles savagely. Dr. Anna subsides.

Between orders commences a musical selection, but is interrupted by mob scene at the door—merely the Chi Psi's trying to get out without paying. Frank Chase is caught with two spoons in his pocket. After patrol arrives, Arthur resumes a solo:

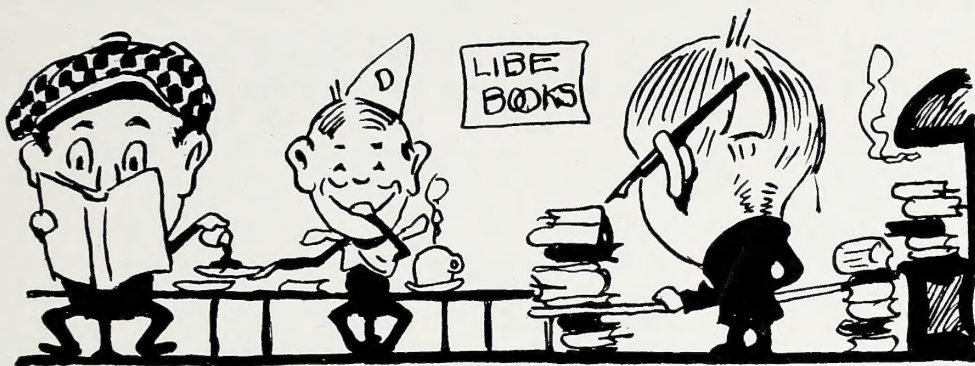

"Oh, I'm a little palpitating, captivating Bolshevik."

Accompanied by Waiters' Chorus and Betty Grimes.

No Applause.

12:15—Someone discovers George Lamb hiding behind plate of sausages with unknown lady. Stage whisper: "Miss Virginia Blair, shimmy artist from the Passing Show."

12:30—"Twenty five cents' fine!"—"A quarter, please!"—"Two days overdue!"—"Gracious" ! ? & ... !! "What's that?"—"Oh, just the loan desk of Child's branch library." (They have one, now. Latest thing, doncha know.) Bill Vilas makes a good loan-desk attendant. Always was a "library lizard." Miriam Thompson and Jess Owens return stack of books and get five more. Are heard diligently studying.

12:35—End of a perfect night. Enter Clarke Nicholson thru front window in his Studebaker. Clarke always was fond of showing off that car. The car is crowded with Phi Psi's and Ada Mae's pet poodle, sitting on Clarke's shoulder. Ah, the poodle, not the Phi Psi's, stupid. Immediately all the other Phi Psi's who are not in the car, yelling: "Oh, Clarke, take us home. Ah, come on, yuh never give us a ride."

This last from Eddie Bicknell and Steve Shannon in chorus. Mob scene about the car. In the excitement, from the pink ribbon by which Clarke has it leashed and begins exploring. Jumps upon Frank Hall's knee and grabs his pan-cake. Wails and exclamations from Frank. Pursuit of the missing pan-cake begins. Waitress drops a tray. Shrieks, crashes, groans.

SWAN SONGS

There, little Gamma Phi,
Don't you weep,
You'll never starve
While sodas are cheap.

There, little Delta Gam,
Cease those sobs,
You'll always get Freshmen
In great big gobs.

There, little Pi Phi,
Stop those sighs,
There'll always be plenty
Of elegant guys.

There, little Theta,
Don't you sniff,
If you can't make Phi Bet,
What's the diff?

There, little Kappa,
Please don't cry,
You'll marry a Chi Psi
By and by.

OF OUR FREE THINKERS

A Foolscap Story

A young writer with more ambition than brains.

A Toast to Gopherism

Gopherism is; it exists; it flourishes; it permeates space. It is more than you think it, less than it might be, more than it might not be. It has a beginning and a middle, but no end. Gopherism never has been and never will be what it is now. But, if "to err is human, to forgive divine," it also follows—ex corpus prohibition—that whatever has not ceased to was is; whatever has not ceased to is, remains; and whatever does not cease to remain, will be.

Referred to what I have said and to what I intend to say, it becomes clear that the present state of Gopherism embraces and defines all conditions, previously incomprehensible to the point of liquefaction, stupefaction, and rarefaction. — — — — —

AND NOW -- --

The Hero --

Every book must have a description of its hero -- so therefore this must have one. He is nice and big and comfortable. Not a bit "bony"; I call him homely but my mother doesn't think that's nice. But he knows I love him when I tell him he's homely. He doesn't call up very much, consequently, he doesn't know when you're all of probably its just as

Tingdale Says So

Believe it or not, these girls are three of the nicest on the whole campus. Now. These girls step out on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights with fraternity men only. Their sorority sisters will only allow fraternity men to call. The girl next to the left and second from the right is very prominent in social affairs, having passed out the napkins at the sorority's open house a few months ago.

WOULD PURGE Y. W. C. A. OF GAMBLING, SMOKING

Special to The Free Press.
London, Feb. 20.—A movement is under way in England to "purge" the Young Women's Christian association of certain habits and laxities that crept into the membership during the war. It is directed mainly against smoking and gambling, but those supporting the movement also desire to have the by-laws against dancing and the theater enforced as strictly as they were in previous years. Factional strife is threatened among the 95,000 members. A branch known as the Evangelical Young Women's Christian association is behind the "purity" campaign, but it is being opposed by the "Liberals" as "narrow minded and puritanical."

STEVE SHANNON OF PHI PSI HAD A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN WHILE WORKING LAST SUMMER

I feel unhappy.
 I had coffee for breakfast.
 Black, wicked coffee.
 The thought of my 8:30 pains me.
 I will not go. I shall stay home and study nature.
 A sparrow is sitting on my window sill,
 Quarreling with his wife.
 The janitor is downstairs making love to one of the maids.
 Idiot! Can't he take warning from the sparrows?
 How disgusting! He is kissing her.
 He has gone indoors.
 The delivery man has come with the ice-cream.
 The maid loves ice-cream,
 She is flirting with the delivery man—
 The creature!
 She is eating ice-cream. He is feeding it to her.
 He is putting his arms around her, she is smiling at him.
 He is going now. The janitor has returned.
 He is going to kiss her again,
 Cat!
 She has slapped him.
 The ice-cream has cooled her passion.
 I am lonely. Oh! Hyacinth!
 I wish someone would kiss me.

IN RETROSPECT

SOME hundred pages back we told our aims and ideals for this book. We have endeavored during the fourteen months of work never to lose sight of them. In a few days now you yourself may judge the extent of our success.

The task, tho difficult at times, has been withal a pleasant one. The staff has worked hard and conscientiously. To the Architectural Faculty and students especially are thanks due for the many fine plates with which this volume is filled.

Those outside our University who have shown such helpful interest, we want especially to thank. The Miller Studio has consistently extended every care and courtesy most promptly; the Bureau of Engraving and especially Mr. J. J. Sher and Mr. L. W. Shirley have done much thru practical suggestions and personal effort; the Augsburg Publishing House, and particularly Mr. W. O. Lund, has from the first helped us with our problems and managed the intricacies of publishing. Mr. Oscar Monson has used exceeding care to secure an accurate and effective make-up, and Mr. Fred Carlson has made every effort that our presswork might be of the finest.

In conclusion, we believe that every faculty member and every student has co-operated in the building of this book, and we appreciate it all.
